

WARSHIPS ALONG COAST WILL AID IN FIGHTING GERMANS' RIGHT WING

BRITISH NAVY WILL ASSUME ACTIVITY IN ATTEMPT TO KEEP INVADERS FROM DUNKIRK AND CALAIS.

ADVANCE THIRTY MILES

Allies Continue Offensive Claim- ing Decisive Victories Against Von Kluck's Armies Which Have Been Pushed Further Toward Belgium.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Oct. 19.—By reaching their tentacles out to the seaport the allied forces have established close contact with the British navy, which is now on the extreme left of the allies, and seems—from the London view—for the moment to block effectively a further German effort to turn this wing.
That the Germans may have grasped this is perhaps indicated in the otherwise unexplained appearance of their four torpedo boats Saturday
off the Dutch coast southward bound.
It is suggested that the object was for the destroyer to convey submarines which would dispute the command of the sea along the Belgian coast.

The British Mined.

Should the German navy undertake this venture it would be confronted with much the same proposition as has not the British fleet since the commencement of the war and it would assume the same risk of collision with mines heretofore faced by the British alone, because the British mine field stretches along the Belgian coast from Ostend southward.

If the allies claim their left wing
cannot be turned the only alternative left for the Germans is to back away
at the trio of armies confronting them
and General Von Kluck or General Furter, seems in no way loath to make the attempt. That they have made a forward move is evident not only from a newspaper dispatch but confirmation of the dispatches in Saturday's official communication from Paris, which stated that the Belgians had repulsed several attempts of the Germans to cross the river Yser, which is ten miles nearer to the coast than the Thourout, Roulers
and Meirine line, which they occupied
on the previous day.

Germans Driven Back.

As an offset to this the British official information bureau in one of its communications says that the allies in the northern arena have driven the Germans back more than 30 miles.
The precise locality of this retreat is not indicated but it can only be at some point of this west wing, where the Germans are trying to resume their interrupted dash on Paris.

These are, however, only two points of the human barriers which are facing one another for hundreds of miles, and continuing to sway forward and backward without as yet
being able to effect the Titanic clash
which will arise to an end the immediate phase of the campaign. The observers here think that this climax cannot be far off, and the London newspapers are quoting approvingly though not in the sense intended, the words attributed to Emperor William in addressing troops somewhere in France on October 3, is reported to have said:

"Before the leaves fall from the trees
here we shall all be back in the Fatherland."

Fail to Reach Calais.
A correspondent of the Times in France telegraphing Sunday, declares that any plans that General Von Kluck
has had to control Calais, have failed.

JAPANESE CRUISER AND A CREW OF 275 IS SUNK BY A MINE

Official Tokio Dispatch Tells of De- struction of Warship in Kiau Chau Bay.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Tokio, Oct. 19.—It is officially announced that the Japanese cruiser Pakachiho was sunk by a mine in Kiau Chau bay on the night of Oct.
17. One officer and nine members of the crew are known to have been saved.

The Japanese cruiser Pakachiho
was built in 1885 and refitted in 1910.
She was a vessel of 3,700 tons and 300 feet long and had 48 foot beam.
Her main battery consisted of eight six-inch guns and her speed was eighteen knots.

294 Men on Board.
At the time she went down the Pakachiho had on board a complement of 294 men.

The Pakachiho was on patrol duty outside of Tsing Tau when she ran foul of the mine. Japanese destroyers heard the explosion and saw the flames that resulted. They hurried to the assistance of the cruiser, which, however, disappeared quickly, and in the darkness it was possible to recover only a dozen men. Twenty-eight officers, 34 non-commissioned officers and 189 seamen perished.

Typhoon at Kiau Chau.

It is announced that a typhoon has struck Kiau Chau, destroying the landing pier. Twenty Japanese sailors were drowned.

Capture Mine Layer.

London, Oct. 19.—The Central News
sent out a dispatch from Harwich,
in which the correspondent says that he has learned upon good authority that the British cruiser Undaunted, accompanied by two torpedo boat destroyers, had captured a German mine
layer in the North Sea.

The mine layer, the dispatch says,
was disguised as a hospital ship. The Undaunted, bringing her prize into Harwich. The press bureau is without confirmation of the incident.

REFUSE TO COMPLY TO BRITISH ORDERS

Demand That German Crew on Ship in Turkish Waters be Discharged is Turned Down.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Constantinople, Oct. 19.—The Porte
has declined to discharge the German crew of the cruiser Goeben and Breslau, which has been in Turkish waters since early in the hostilities and which are said to have been sold to Germany to the Turkish government.
This reply was given in answer to the British representative regarding the continuous presence of Germans board those two ships. The government has now shelved the matter,
declaring it to be a domestic question, although it had probably given repeated assurances that these Germans would be repatriated.

tence calmly.

CHECK THE ADVANCE OF GERMAN FORCES IN WEST FLANDERS

ALLIES' WEDGE REPORTED TO HAVE MADE INROADS UPON GERMAN DEFENSES NEAR LILLE.

BELGIANS OFFER FIGHT

King Albert's Troops Balk German Attempt to Cross River Yser— Ostend Practically Clear of Kaiser's Men.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Oct. 19.—From the point of view of the allies so far as can be learned from dispatches reaching London today, the situation in West
Flanders and in France as far south
as Lille, seemed on the 27th day of the war, perhaps more hopeful
than at any time since the German advance on Paris was watched.

All tidings seem to indicate that the German army operating along the coast of Flanders, though temporarily blocked, temporarily at least while further south in the region that was a week ago the extreme German right, the invaders have been again compelled to give ground before the allies' wedged forces, which has been concentrating on Lille.

Ostend Free of Germans.

Several reports contend that the Germans have withdrawn from this town, but this is not confirmed nor is the report that they evacuated Courtrai, nearly thirty miles northwest. It seems, plain, however, that the German army operating along the coast of Flanders found itself in peril of being cut off from the main body.

All reports seem to agree that the city of Courtrai is in the hands of Germans, who apparently are reforming to the south with reinforcements and the siege guns used to batter the Belgian forts, and that they now occupy Courtrai and Ostend.

Further south in France re-inforcements from Brussels are said to have been brought up before Lille, which the Germans are reported as bombarding in a desperate attempt to take the place.

Belgians Again Active.

The Belgians themselves have been putting in some hard knocks. According to last night's Paris communication, they have held the Germans
in their attempt to cross the river
Yser, southwest of Dixmude, Belgium.
It was the first heard of the Belgian forces since the evacuation of Antwerp.
King Albert, unheard of for some time, is said to have cheered the men in the field. Some of the London papers described the German evacuation of Ostend as a retirement to the east on the theory that the allies pressed to the south to isolate the Ostend garrison making a retreat imperative.

From various sources many reports,
none of which were confirmed, that some sort of naval craft are being pressed into use by the allies in the canals of Flanders and perhaps from the sea. Sunday a dispatch direct from Dunkirk said that heavy firing could be heard in the night. It was believed that gunboats were being used in the canals. It was added that heavy fighting was progressing
south of Ostend, which if true meant the German army was being driven point further north than theretofore suspected. This is contradicted by a report that the Germans are west of Furnes.

Anti-German Riots.

There was a sporadic recurrence
of the anti-German rioting in parts of London early this morning. Police protection in such places has been increased and the riotous outbreaks were reported during the forenoon in the city but that at Saffron-Walden in Essex, an English lawyer's house was attacked and the windows smashed because he was said he had been harboring two Germans.

In the continuation of the rioting
at Deptford last night, a German grain dealer's house, and store were wrecked.

In the eastern war area, the great battle of Poland appears to be progressing in favor of the Russians who claim to have checked decisively the German advance in the Carpathians, and to have driven the Russians in the Carpathians. The Russians in and around Warsaw are being temporarily protected from fresh German artillery aggression by reason of the impossible condition of the country which has been reduced to ruins, and the destruction of the only railroad from Lodz to Warsaw, on which the Germans could transport their heavy guns.

40,000 Russians Killed.

Around Przemyśl the Austrians claim to have killed and wounded 40,000 Russians, and also to have crossed the Carpathians, but on the other hand the Russians repulsed an Austrian attempt to cross the San.
That the Austrians are meeting with opposition is admitted in the latest Vienna dispatch which says the Germans are advancing against the fortress.

Machine Plunges Down Incline, Pin- ning Youth Beneath Wheels— Young Men From Marion.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
MaMarion, Wis., Oct. 19.—Five young men were descending a steep hill in an automobile today when an axle broke, tipping the machine over.
Three of them were thrown over a fence without injuries, but Carl Yankee was pinned down by the broken steering gear, the head of the steering column penetrating his side, killing him instantly. One of the other occupants of the front seat was badly injured. They were all Marion men.

DOCTOR'S WIFE ON TRIAL FOR MURDER; DRAW JURY TODAY

Mrs. Carman, Charged With Murder of Woman Who Visited Hus- band's Office in Free- port, N. H.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Minneapolis, N. H., Oct. 19.—Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman of Freeport was placed on trial today for murder. She was charged with slaying Mrs. Louise Bailey of Hampstead on the night of June 30 last while Mrs. Bailey was in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, the defendant's husband, whither she had gone for medical advice.

The case progressed swiftly. Five jurors had been selected by noon.
Men and women stormed the court house in an effort to obtain seats in the courtroom. Few were admitted.
Mrs. Carman appeared to be self-possessed, but became increasingly nervous. She whispered often to her husband during the selection of the jury. Wm. Bailey, whose wife was the victim, sat within ten feet of Mrs.
Carman but she did not see him.

AMERICAN MARINES LANDED AT HAITIAN

Victorious Rebels Capture and Enter Cape Haitian—U. S. Marines in Control of Situation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Cape Haitian, Oct. 19.—The latest developments in the Haitian revolution is the occupation of Cape Haitian by the victorious rebels. They entered the town today.

American marines from warships
in the harbor had landed, and are in control of the situation. The rebels entered in an orderly manner.

The ministry of President Zamor realizing that it is not in a position to control the situation, left Cape Haitian today on the dispatch boat Pachigue.

London, Oct. 19.—The correspondent of the Central News at Rome says that a telegram has been received at Bucharest, Roumania, which declared
a German train containing 150 trucks laden with munition and other materials for Turkey stopped by the Romanian authorities on the railroad between Bucharest and Giurgievo on the Danube. The German government before the train was not allowed to proceed.

NOTED HISTORIAN WILL BE SPEAKER

Worthington C. Ford of Massachusetts Will Talk at Annual Meeting of Historical Society.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—Worthington C. Ford, editor of the publications of the Massachusetts Historical Society and one of the well known historians of the country will be the principal speaker at the sixty-second annual meeting of the Wisconsin Historical Society next Thursday evening, Oct. 22. The meeting will be held in the lecture room of the state historical building. Dr. Ford will deliver a lecture on "The Treaty of Ghent—and After." The address, based upon the letters of one of the American plenipotentiaries, John Quincy Adams, will sketch the negotiations with sidelights upon the personal incidents.
The essential difference between European and American territorial policy will be indicated.

Dr. Ehen D. Pierce of Trempealeau will relate the life history of James Reed, the first permanent settler in Trempealeau county. Reed settled at Fort Crawford after the close of the war of 1812, and before his death in 1873 had lived the spectacular life of a soldier, hunter, trapper, deer, tax-ider keeper and government Indian farmer. "The Labor Movement in Wisconsin During the Civil War" will be the subject of an address by Professor C. E. Johnson, research assistant of the Wisconsin Historical Society. This paper will show the beginnings of the original labor movement in the state.
The "Taverns and Stages of Early Wisconsin" is the subject of a paper prepared by J. H. A. Lacher of Waukesha. Some of the results of years of investigation conducted under the direction of the Canadian government will be given by Paul Radin of the Canadian Bureau of Ethnology at Ottawa. Much of his time in recent years has been spent in a study of the Winnebago Indian race in Wisconsin. Minnesota.
"The Winnebago Migration Legend," relates to their wars with the Fox Indians and their forced migration from Lake Winnebago to the Mississippi valley. Professor M. M. Gaffney will read a paper on "Henry Hays' Journal."

NOT MANY TRIPLETS BORN IN WISCONSIN

Twins Happen Frequently, However, According to Report of Bureau of Vital Statistics.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—"Triplets" are uncommon in Wisconsin according to the birth records for the year 1913, which have just been compiled at the office of the state bureau of vital statistics. Out of 55,237 born during the year only twelve were triplets.
The records show that 734 were twins.

The annual birth rate for Wisconsin
in 1913 was 23.9 per 1,000 estimated population. Of the 55,237 births reported, 23,509 were males and 26,663
were females. Classifying the births according to the number of children in each family it is shown that 3,667 were born of native parents; 2,696 of native fathers and foreign mothers; 6,356 of foreign fathers and native mothers;
10,946 were born of foreign fathers and 736 were children where the nativity of one or both parents was unknown.

ITALIAN CONFESSES TO SLAYING FARMER

Suspects Wills on "Third Degree" and Admits Shooting Kenosha Farmer in Woods Sunday.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 19.—After several hours of "third degree" examination Louigi Anlozz, an Italian twenty years old, today confessed to the police that he shot and killed John Luss,
a local farmer, at a place near the town of Somers, yesterday, after Luss had ordered him and five other hunters off the farm.

Anlozz was arraigned this morning
on a charge of murder, but the hearing was adjourned to permit further investigation into the case.

PRESIDENT PRAISES WORK OF CONGRESS LED BY DEMOCRATS

WILSON IN LETTER TO UNDER- WOOD REVIEWS LEGIS- LATIVE ACHIEVE- MENTS.

SERVED PEOPLE BETTER

Work of Congress Titled as "Fine Exhibition of Teamwork and Devotion to Fulfilling Pledges."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Oct. 18.—President Wilson made public today a letter to Majority Leader Underwood of the House in which he reviewed the achievements of his administration, outlined the program for the next session of Congress, and declared
"The Democratic party is no vain fact the only instrument ready to the country's hand by which anything can be accomplished."

The President wrote the letter as an endorsement of all Democratic members of Congress in lieu of speeches he said he would like to make in every congressional district. He predicted victory for his party in the elections because "every thoughtful man sees that a change of parties just now would set the clock back, not forward," and because "a practical nation is not likely to reject such a team, full of the spirit of public service, and substitute, in the midst of great tasks, either a party
upon which a deep demoralization has fallen, or a party which has not grown to a stature that would warrant its assuming the responsible burdens of state."

The legislative program begun during the present Congress was declared by the President to have begun "to destroy private control and set business free." He said that the people of the country had been served by this Congress as they have never been served before.

Outlining the work already accomplished, Mr. Wilson mentioned the reform of the tariff, the passage of the new currency bill, the antitrust bills, and the handling of foreign problems. He said he doubted if there has ever been a finer exhibition of teamwork or of unhesitating devotion to the fulfillment of party pledges.

Praising the new tariff bill, the President asserted that "private control had shown its sinister face on every hand in America, had shown it for a long time, and sometimes very brazenly in the trusts, and in the virtual domination of credit by small groups of men." He said that high prices did not spring directly from the tariff, but out of the suppression of competition which furnished marginal under the protection of a high tariff. He declared that the panic which opponents of the new bill predicted, had not come, and that despite the European war there had been sufficient time to prove the success of the act.

The trade commission bill and the Clayton anti-trust bill were spoken of as designed "to make men in a small way of business as free to succeed
as men in a big way, and to kill monopoly in the shed." He added that monopolies are built up by unfair methods of competition, which would be eliminated by the new legislation, and that the "cut-throat cut off at the roots," he declared.

"If our party were to be called upon to name the particular point of principle in which it differs from its opponents most sharply, in which it differs from them in a definite assured by experience," continued the President "we should no doubt say that it was this: That we would have no dealings with monopoly but reject it while our opponents were ready to adopt and moderate it in its operation. It is our purpose to destroy monopoly and maintain competition as the only effective instrument of business liberty."

Justice has been done the laborer,
declared the President, and his labor is no longer to be treated as an object of scorn and derision, but as commerce disconnected from the fortunes and happiness of a living human being, to be dealt with as an object of sale and purchase.

"We have created a democracy of credit such as has never existed in this country before." He declared that "credit is now at the disposal of every man who can show energy and assets," and because control of the system rested with the government, said "it is self-government as well as democracy."

It was impossible to complete rural credit legislation the latter added,
but the federal reserve act itself
"facilitates and enlarges agricultural credit to an extraordinary degree."

Speaking of the program for the next session of Congress, the President mentioned legislation for building up the American merchant marine, and the completion of great programs for the conservation of our natural resources and the development of the water power of the country.

"Without a Congress in close sympathy with the administration," wrote the President, "a whole scheme
of peace and honor and disinterested service to the world, can not be brought to its full realization."

TWO BICYCLE RIDERS
COLLIDE ON STREET CORNER

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]—October 19.—An accident that might have been fatal, occurred on the corner of Center and Fourth streets when Earl Fricker and Arthur Harris collided while riding their bicycles. Thursday evening, Henry Ridge was driving down the street and young Harris, who was behind him, going in the same direction, turned out to pass on Ridge's left, just as Fricker was riding up-street, keeping to the right as he should have done. Each saw the other, but it was too late to avoid a collision. Fricker was struck in the shoulder and was up on his feet at once, though dazed. But Harris was hurled and was picked up by passers-by. In a short time each said he was all right and each went his way. After making some purchases at one of the stores Harris started for his uncle's home on South Prince street and got as far as Miss Lilly's home where he fell over into the hedge. Some normal school students whom he had passed, found him there, and they went to the P. R. Bloodgood home for assistance. Mr. Bloodgood got the boy into his home and he was conscious enough to tell his name. They telephoned to Will Harris' residence and learned he was the son of Robert Harris, living between Johnson and Richmond, and a telephone message brought the boy's parents into town in a very short time. The doctors who were summoned, found the boy in convulsions and it was some hours before they were able to move him to the home of his uncle, Will Harris, on South Prince street. He will be taken to his home when he has sufficiently recovered to be moved.

GOD, NATURE, DRUGS NEEDS FOR HEAVEN

REV. JOHN MCKINNEY, CHRIST CHURCH PASTOR, SAYS
THREE ARE NECESSARY FOR SALVATION.

SERMON FROM ST. LUKE

Discourse on Writings and Teachings of Saint at Morning Service Yesterday.

The Rev. John McKinney, pastor of Christ Episcopal church, Court street, delivered at the regular service Sunday morning a powerful sermon on St. Luke the Evangelist. Yesterday was the feast of this patron and the Rev. McKinney took the opportunity to discuss freely the teachings and entered slightly into the writings of St. Luke.

His sermon was an impetus to break down the belief that nature and drugs are not wholly an essential for the worldly life of a Christian gentleman; for this man's entering into the kingdom of God and enjoying evermore, after death, eternal happiness with Him and His Angels.

In part the reverend gentleman's sermon is appended.

"St. Luke's writings were different from those of the rest of the Apostles. It is not a hard matter either to trace him in the Bible, either when speaking of miracle and using medical terms this writer always described each ailment in medical phraseology. He is and was known as Luke, the beloved physician."

"This humble saint was a stimulant of loyalty to St. Paul, a man, steadfast to Jesus Christ, who applied the principles and teachings of the Holy Son in his own life as well as in his teachings."

"Many men follow the line of least resistance in their moral and physical life; others find something sweet in suffering and tribulation. The first, however, does not find it in whatever capacity."

"But the church for some reason has seen fit to unite medicine and religion. They go hand in hand. One is essential to the other. Common sense tells us that the herbs of the field are of some use other than to gratify the pleasure of the eye. The great God Almighty placed these little growths and large too, on this earth for some great purpose other than beautification of our worldly planet."

"The instincts of the beasts of the field, instituted by God, tell them that the powers of this or perhaps another herb will bring ease of their pain, as a remedy to their particular sickness and incidentally bring about the betterment of their physical condition."

"With our own body, too. What do we do when sick, feel not fit for our daily duties? Does something superior to instinct tell us and relieve our minds to the fact that a physician or surgeon is not necessary? Do we feel that drugs will have no effect upon our peculiar situation? Speak of disillusioned healings, of the uselessness of physicians, but with all this and in the time dire need we feel that God says differently. Medicine and religion must work hand in hand and to dispute this fact is disputing the Holy Scriptures."

"You read the gospels and you find the church supports a three-fold authority—bishops, priests and deacons. Read St. Paul's epistles for authority. And in addition my brethren, you will find there are other ministrants together with the bishops, the priests and the deacons; functions that are supplementary for different persons of this worldly life and on with different talents. These aid to the mastering of the body and are true both physically and mentally. If one is sick he needs a physician. The man in distress there is no heal without drugs."

"What did Jesus Christ do? With clay he made the blind man see; bid the lepers go wash and show them selves to the priest and healed and made well the sick son of the believing father. But these are only a few instances and many more could be cited. Nature was supplementary to his own works. He treated too and made well at a distance. And that was the Saviour."

"And furthermore, He has never taken that power away. Look about you in this particular time. You see his wonderful works of this nature continually being performed. The sick and injured and feeble journey to the holy waters to wash there, be made clean, and believing, made well. No man has ever taken this power away from His church and from the faithful who glorify and love Him and yet fear His unmerciful wrath."

"He has blessed the labors of physicians and their obedience and skill for the people. He has blessed the men who have brought to us the cunningly devised bridges that span the gulfs of nature; the drugs that bring us back to physical perfection."

"No physician ever claimed that medicine alone ever cured anyone. Nature's essential assistance enters into the healing of a sore and many other cases that daily without fail confront them. But nature needs help and without this help nature would do but a crude work."

"A broken arm for instance. If we draw together no doubt, but would the member be fit and strong like the other? It is an easy answer. But with the doctor's skill, his herbs and drugs and his splints, he slowly, with the aid of that all-powerful nature, heals the fracture, makes it fully as useful after the fracture, as before the injury resulted."

"And who would desert the physician in that instance? And who in case like this would be fair but to acknowledge that medicine and religion do not travel and exist hand in hand."

"Now, I must take the religious side, and as the doctor knits the fracture together, I must show that the religious and medical phases of this life are closely knitted also."

"I am afraid that we dwell too much on the physical side of things, forgetting the while, the spiritual. But we must pray. We must confess our sins before God. We must not only do this in time of sickness, but we must always remember that some while away we will stand before the throne of the Almighty, our all powerful Father, to be judged."

"Some men pretend work of miraculous nature. The unscrupulous doctor, who tells you you will go if you don't do this or that, and believe with him, is only after your purse strings. You go to some irresponsible person through lack of love of God. But do you not like to do this. Read the Bible and this will tell you how. Make use of the Sacraments and use His grace and with His help you will be brought to the cause that will make better your body. But we seem to lack the love of God and throw into discard, His ever-ready help and assistance and presence when in need."

"Nevertheless we want to be fair to those people who won't lead Christian lives. That is our religion and our phrase of brotherly love."

"St. Luke speaks of diagnosis, of symptoms and of drugs and the necessity of nature in the healing. Work must be with God on high, together with worldly means to be healed. There is no dispute for this."

"As I said, some doctors are bad, some worse, but on the other hand, there will not we find the black among the white sheep. There are many good physicians and ones true to God, and who ask His help in their daily tasks. They are charitable and kind and know full well that without His power their work would be for naught."

"We will contemplate only the man of Christian position and character. This doctor enters into the secrets of our life, secrets, a mother would not tell her husband, nor to her child. Yet we tell our physician. Therefore, made well the manner of man must be, what character must be possessed, that we should do this and lay bare our physical welfare before him. And too, likewise, we must lay bare before God our own lives. We must make use of the means of grace He has given us; the Last Supper and baptism. They are still here. He has given them to his children and he has given them to us. He has established no thing unworthy of a purpose. He did not give His precious blood for nothing. No."

"He established, too, the means by which His power can be brought more fully before us. This is sickness and truly sickness has its value."

"God put you on your bed to make you recall that there day of purpose in life, that life with Him after death was meant for you and here you must ponder, if you have never before pondered on the means for your salvation. His death clearly brought to you senses. The great realization of a purpose after death comes before you and this means He takes to permit you to recall that He wants other cases that daily without fail like a ghostly shadow."

"Thank God, therefore, to be given this time of pondering. Thank him for his mercy to you in giving you time before he maps out your thread of life and brings you to his judgment throne and points an accusing finger and you are damned into everlasting fire or live in glory with him for evermore."

"We can say we never had opportunity for forgiveness. It is omnipresent and we must make use now for we know not the time. Now, now is the acceptable time."

"We are all more or less ill—physically sick and mentally, or less we would not be here today. Our worship demonstrates clearly that we are in His sight and it behooves us to fight the good fight. We want the good power in our hearts that He may exalt us in due time. Now we must prepare for the great journey, for the inevitable end."

"We need to be healed. We must be kind, liberal and reverent. No worldly physician can work for us with these worldly drugs. These wonders are only for God."

SAFETY FIRST

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.
For flagging No. 146 on the night of Sept. 15th, when the torrential rains made water overflow the track at Boynton's cut, a mile and a half west of Avon, Section Foreman William Monahan has been commended for his alertness. Besides flagging the passenger train, Monahan let them proceed over the dangerous part of the track with caution.

Expectations are that the next meeting of the Prairie du Chien and Mineral Point divisions safety committee meeting will be held in Janesville the latter part of this month. There is a possibility, however, that the gathering will take place at Madison.

Chicago & Northwestern Ry.
The Safety First campaign, by the Wisconsin division and which has been on exhibition here in the passenger depot, has been taken to Harvard. It will be exhibited for a month and then continue its journey around the division circuit.

The traffic department of the Chicago & Northwestern, in co-operation with the Illinois Potato Marketing Bureau, has aided greatly in the development of the potato growing industry in the Cloverland district of Michigan during the past year. The railway paid all the expense in establishing five potato patches, consisting of 1,000 hills in each patch on its right of way in Menominee county, Delta county and Marquette county. This ground was prepared, cultivated and plowed by the section men at the respective stations. The seed was purchased by the railway and a liberal amount of commercial fertilizer was purchased and applied. The care and culture of the potatoes have been under the supervision of the roadmaster, and the service has been rendered by the section men. Each patch has been located on a different variety of soil and the crops at all five stations have far exceeded many of the adjacent potato fields that have not been benefited by the same amount of cultivation and care. The object of course, was to prove to the farmers residing in each locality that their efforts would be crowned with greater success if they would adopt more careful methods.

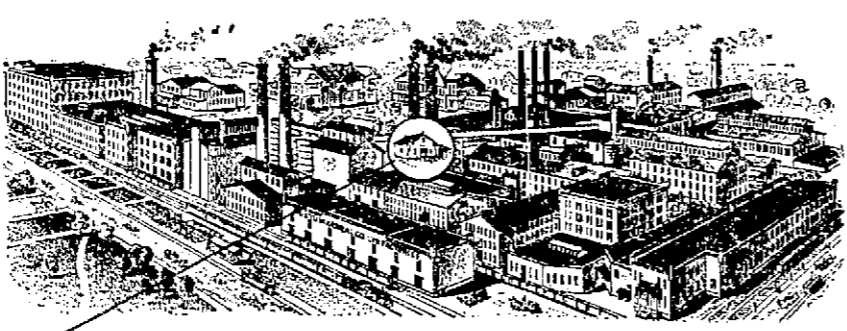

The first union depot to be erected under a law giving the railroad commission power to order the erection of union depots, will be built at Sparks. The Northwestern road is intended to build a new depot, when Senator Howard Teasdale made application to the commission for the erection of a joint depot to be built by the Northwestern and St. Paul roads. The commission has ordered the erection, either of two depots, side by side, or else a union depot.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.
Robert S. Burnett, M. J. Adler and W. R. Nealeigh, organizers of the Brotherhood of all Railway Employees, an organization for the furtherance of the safety first movement and for personal benefit, were in the city Saturday and yesterday to organize a local lodge. The men are covering the country in an automobile and visiting the smaller cities and railroad towns. The B. of all R. E. now has 85,000 members and is officially recognized by seventeen different railway systems. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul is the latest road to recognize, officially, the organization.

Being Held Here: A man named Shelby is being held at the Rock county jail for safe keeping, being committed here from Elkhorn, where he was being held on the charge of forgery. As the county is building a new jail at Elkhorn and there was no adequate means of imprisoning Shelby, he was brought here. It is said that Shelby was about to break jail, having attempted to communicate to outside people to aid him.

The Decreased Consumption of Coffee has caused widespread alarm among the coffee trade.

"There's a Reason"

Twenty years ago the manufacturer of POSTUM was started in the small white building shown above. The business grew!

Doctors found that coffee drinking was hurting the health of people, right and left.

Chemists analyzed coffee and found this harm was due to two health-wrecking drugs, caffeine and tannin.

People injured by coffee stopped its use and started to drink

POSTUM

Twenty great factory buildings covering nearly ten acres now surround the little building where Postum was first made, and carloads of this wholesome food-drink are shipped daily to take place of coffee on the tables of hundred of thousands.

Each cup of coffee carries its dose of caffeine and tannin (about 2½ grains of each) and sooner or later symptoms of poisoning show themselves in headache, biliousness, heart disturbance, nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness, etc.

Relief generally follows when one quits coffee and uses POSTUM.

Postum, a pure food-drink with a rich Java like flavour, is made of prime wheat and a small per cent of molasses, absolutely free from caffeine, tannin or any other harmful ingredients.

OPEN FOOTBALL WINS BIG GAMES SATURDAY

FORWARD PASS PLAYS PROMINENT PART IN GRIDIRON STRUGGLES.

OUTPLAY NOTRE DAME

Yale By Versatile Attack and Strong Defense Work Humbles Notre Dame in Big Intercollegiate Game.

The results of Saturday's football contests demonstrate that the forward pass and open football are a factor to be considered much more this year than in the past, for even the eastern teams as well as western depended and won Saturday's games with frequent and successful use of the pass. Coaches of the east are beginning to use and adopt more of the western style of playing gradually supplanting the "hammer and tong" football for formation plays and wing games by good scores. Heavy fields proved hostile in both east and west and in several cases aided a heavy eleven to beat lighter and faster eleven.

With the possible exception of the big score Yale swamped Notre Dame with and the tight battle the Michigan Aggies gave Yost's big eleven there were not many surprises sprung. The stronger eleven unloosening their power and plays for the first time.

Yale is Strong. Notre Dame met her first defeat in four years when the Yale bulldog, with an array of tactics taught by Coach Hinkley which proved unorthodox, defeated the western team 28 to 0. The Yale offense had been perfected to such an extent that backfield passes, doubt and even a single punt from mid-field for a touchdown through eleven Iowa tacklers. Russell stood still after catching the ball, making the Iowa men believe he would down the ball. Then he "cycled" down the field for the only score of the game. Russell may win the Purdue game next Saturday with another of these runs.

Coach Juneau has worked wonders with the team during the last week, having a strong line that will compare favorably with any western aggression. Mucks, the Oshkosh giant is playing tackle in hopeful style. The backfield is weak. Kreuz is making good at line plunging, rooting his way through in winning style.

The Chicago Maroons layed low when Stagg kept his "jokers" up his sleeve and made the team win on straight football. Russell, the Maroon star quarter, reeled off a long run that beat Iowa 7 to 0. Fumbling endangered and marred the game. The Maroons will not show their real "dope" until they meet a foe that is a true contender for the championship. Indiana evidently has recuperated, for they crushed the weak Northwestern team 27 to 0. Indiana surprised football critics with their improvement and it is to be regretted that they could not have showed their ability against Chicago last Saturday.

University of Michigan will have to show more "stuff" against Harvard than she did against the scrappy Aggies, for the former boys made Yost's players resort to a kick to gain revenge for the valloping given the Michigan team last year. Michigan won 3 to 0, but the Aggies deserve the credit of the game. Straight football by the Aggies netted long gains that had Michigan up the field fighting to the last ditch, but luck played against the losers. Huggitt, captain of the Michigan eleven and stellar quarter, was badly injured in the game and will probably be in the hospital for some time.

State Games. Lawrence defeated Carroll 12 to 3 in the most important gridiron struggle in the state, which is probably the deciding game for the college title of Wisconsin. Portier starred for Carroll, but the Appleton players held him in check. Dalton, of Janesville played right half for Carroll and A. Wood, of this city, played at end and the greater part of the game. Atwood in the last quarter had his shoulder dislocated. Beloit and Marquette were unable to schedule their scrap and ascertain if Marquette can win a game this season. The contest will be held in Milwaukee on Tuesday. Other results:

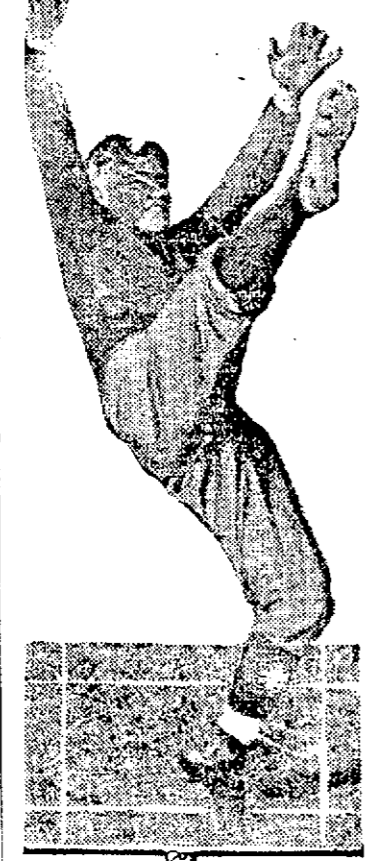

Other Eastern Games. Princeton, by open playing with frequent use of dexterous passes defeated Lafayette 16 to 0. Carlisle, as a candidate for the title honors is a past winner for the Indians met their third straight defeat at the hands of Pittsburgh. This team has showed good football, winning its games by a safe margin.

Cornell, perhaps one of the strongest western teams, buried their rival, Bucknell, 48 to 0, playing the running, punting game. Bucknell was unable to execute open plays with any success, they being promptly smeared by the Cornell linemen.

Army took advantage of Colgate's errors and won easily 21 to 7. Penn State defeated the weak Navy who gave a bitter struggle in which the Aggies won 13 to 0, using a forward pass to put the winning score beyond the goals. Reports show that the historic Army-Navy game will be played at Philadelphia Nov. 28.

Wisconsin boosted their hopes as conference champions, eliminating the Purdue team 14 to 7 in the last game of the season after the Boilermakers had played the Badgers off the field in the opening part of the melee. Purdue's smashing plays rent the Badger line, but after the first quarter the team pulled together and outlasted the Indiana eleven. The Wisconsin team had a "hard" game, but the conference of Purdue's mistakes, which was fast and effective. The losers used the forward pass to get within striking distance and then played the piskin across. The Badger line showed well, holding the Purdue onslaught the last two periods. This victory has changed the attitude of the Wisconsin hopes from a hopeless squad to a dark horse in the conference to beat Chicago and Illinois for the title.

RUSSELL STARS FOR THE MAROONS

Pete Russell.

Coach Stagg owes his victory Saturday over Iowa to his quarterback, Pete Russell, who retained a punt from mid-field for a touchdown through eleven Iowa tacklers. Russell stood still after catching the ball, making the Iowa men believe he would down the ball. Then he "cycled" down the field for the only score of the game. Russell may win the Purdue game next Saturday with another of these runs.

FREEPORT DEFEATS HIGH ELEVEN 19-0; EXCITING CONTEST

Sucker Men Are Forced to Uncover All Their Tricks to Triumph Over Local Team on Saturday.

Outweighed twenty pounds to the man, the Janesville high school football eleven stubbornly went down to defeat on Saturday at the hands of the strong Freeport high school players. The final score was 19 to 0, and the Sucker men were forced to use every trick they possessed in order to figure in a victory. Janesville, after playing a poor and ragged game in the first half, came back like mad men, and with a sanguine disposition tore repeatedly through the much heavier line of their opponents for long gains. Four times the ball was placed in striking distance of Freeport's goal, but failure to plant the piskin beneath the goal posts, showed a decided weakness on the part of the locals. More was the individual star for Janesville. This big fullback reeled off a long run that beat Freeport for ten, fifteen and twenty yard gains. His punting was a feature of the game. The shift of placing Rau in left tackle, and More at fullback, has satisfied Coach Curtis greatly. It is agreed that the combination works much better.

Apparently stage fright, and on a field ankle deep in mud, in which the center of the gridiron was a baseball diamond covered over with an inch of water, that resembled a mid-winter swimming hole, were conditions facing the locals not to speak of the number of men on the team who had entered the fray for the first game of their lives. Great credit is due the blue and white for their stubborn fight against a team that weighed 165 pounds average. Janesville tipped the beam at barely 145, when the quotient was figured out, immediately following the game.

Dearborn, Stewart and Cronin were responsible for many long gains, penalties marring their feats. It would be hard to enumerate the times the game was tied for penalty. But for this fact, the game would have been a royal battle, in which a victory would have been in doubt until the final whistle. Janesville's inexperienced men were responsible for being off-side many times, and even the Freeport heavies were fined several times for having pulled, or pushed during the contest. A short account of the game follows:

First Quarter. Janesville opened the game by showing a terrible weakness on defense. Gale after gain was credited to two Illinois men on straight football. Two touchdowns were made in this period by the heavier team, the quarter ending, Freeport, 12; Janesville, 0.

Second Quarter. Janesville failed to get their bearings in this period. Play was in order in the center of the ball diamond, where a pool of water was a drawback to both teams. Freeport, being the heavier team, were able by constant line plowing, to register another touchdown which brought their total to 19, as the period closed.

Last Two Quarters. A severe lecture given the Bower City team by Coach Curtis, brought them to their feet in the last two periods, and they entered the game with the better team, and yells from the Freeport rooters, credited Janesville for what they accomplished in the last two periods. Janesville played regular football, and much can be expected from them in the coming games. For Coach Curtis believes they have now got their bearings. Edgerton will be played this week Saturday at the Driving park.

The Janesville line-up for Saturday's game was as follows: Janesville: Richards, 1e; Rau and Roberts, 1t; McCulloch, 1g; Slawson, c; Schenck and Kaluske, 7s; Dudley, rt; Viney, re; Stewart, (Capt.), qb; Cronin, 1h; Dearborn, rh; More, 3b.

Sport Snap Shots

Of course, only those intimately connected with Chief Bender know whether he really laid down on Connie Mack in the world's series even to the extent of failing to keep in condition. However, Ban Johnson, president of the American league, told a story at Boston that throws a very interesting light upon the situation of Bender in the first game, and possibly explains why Mack didn't start him again in the series. It will be remembered that the game Bender lost was the first in which he was ever knocked out as a series performer, or the first classic struggle he had ever lost before a home gathering. It appears that a few days before the opening of the world's series Mack ordered the redskin to go to New York to watch the Braves in action. A few hours later Connie ran into Bender in the streets of Philadelphia. "I thought you had gone to look over the Braves," said Mack, somewhat testily. "Oh, I didn't give that a second thought," answered the Indian. "What's the use of wasting a perfectly good afternoon looking over that bunch of bush league hitters?" Bender's dope about the bush league hitters was absolutely correct, for they certainly hit his offerings to the tail uncut.

Yale football is the old Yale football in new dress. Those who have watched the Elis this year declare that despite his free use of the open game, Frank Hinkley has made the 1914 eleven look more like the old Yale team than any for some years. The plays are new plays, but they are executed in the old Yale style. The eleven is a machine, well polished individually for so early in the year, and executing its plays with unusual precision.

State Games.

Lawrence defeated Carroll 12 to 3 in the most important gridiron struggle in the state, which is probably the deciding game for the college title of Wisconsin. Portier starred for Carroll, but the Appleton players held him in check. Dalton, of Janesville played right half for Carroll and A. Wood, of this city, played at end and the greater part of the game. Atwood in the last quarter had his shoulder dislocated. Beloit and Marquette were unable to schedule their scrap and ascertain if Marquette can win a game this season. The contest will be held in Milwaukee on Tuesday. Other results:

THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

E. L. Philipp, the republican candidate for governor, was introduced to an audience of six hundred, at Green Bay, the other night, by Samuel H. Cady, who for many years has been a follower and staunch supporter of La Follette. Mr. Cady was recently asked, by the manager of the progressive party, to support Blaine, the independent candidate for governor. He said in reply:

"Philipp has been fairly nominated by the republican party. Any man who becomes an independent candidate for the purpose of taking republican votes is a traitor. I believe in party organization and that it is only through party organization that the best results can be accomplished under our system of government. I am a republican and I believe that the success of the republican party is essential to the best welfare of our country. The support of Blaine by any considerable number of republicans might mean the defeat of the republican state ticket, which, in turn, would mean the weakening of the republican party in the nation as a whole. Under no circumstances would I consider doing anything for the candidacy of Mr. Blaine."

He concluded his manly and vigorous letter by declaring his intention of supporting Mr. Philipp and the republican ticket, and expressing his opinion that it would surprise him very much if Mr. Blaine receives one thousand votes out of the ten thousand that will be cast in Brown county. Thousands of La Follette men, all over the state, are following Mr. Cady's example. They endorse the sentiment he expressed, and will vote the republican ticket straight this year. This hue and cry about Philipp being a minority candidate, is the veriest nonsense.

Any man nominated at a primary election, when there are more candidates in the field, is a minority candidate and had either of the other aspirants secured the nomination nothing would have been said about minority rule.

The chickens have come home to roost. "It makes all the difference in the world whose ox is gored." The beauties of the primary law are becoming more apparent at every turn of the wheel, but the men responsible for the travesty have no kick coming. The law works just as it was intended to, but the machine has slipped a cog, in spite of the "Mary Ann" lubrication.

THE TURN IN THE ROAD.

President Wilson today makes public a letter which he has sent to Representative Underwood on the future policy of the government. The Wall Street Journal today asks the following pertinent question:

"Has Washington at last actually reached the long-deferred turn in the lane of legislation against business? It seems so. Or why should President Wilson have made a point of announcing this purpose in his letter to Representative Underwood? The declaration in that form and at this time would seem to have more than ordinary significance."

"In the language of the old Puritans, let us thank God and take courage. Big business, as well as every other kind, will welcome any sound policy of constructive co-operation on the part of the government. Business of all kinds has been under fire for fully a dozen years. The brunt has been mainly borne by the larger corporations. Railroad, banking and manufacturing have felt the attack from president down to the merest pinhead politician since the Roosevelt administration began to breathe threats against the so-called malefactors of great wealth. That the country has saved itself from worse is a credit to the commercial, financial and industrial interests now beginning to secure the confidence of responsible Washington."

"When Woodrow Wilson, then governor of New Jersey, delivered his famous address at the New York Economic club, before his nomination for the presidency, he declared that big business in relation to government had managed to cloak its actions beyond a certain point with a veil of secrecy, to which the public has no access. If the occasion for that attitude had been dispelled, much has been gained, indeed."

"If business on its own account is reasonably open to public examination, if in its relation with government it has nothing to conceal, and if the many investigations which have resulted in disillusioning fancies of politicians, then the better day is not far off. Certainly big business in the banking world has recently proved its capacity to work with government in a crisis."

"Foreign governments stand by their industrial and commercial agencies in any sound policy of upbuilding the material interest of the nation. Why not try working together?"

The reason why gasoline continues to be cheap is because the refiners have discovered a process of extracting 90 per cent of the fluid from crude oil, instead of 20 per cent, which was the limit of production two years ago. Cheap tires and cheap gasoline will stimulate the automobile business."

The Bethlehem Steel company is acting as the distributing agent for army supplies, and has already placed orders for $71,000,000 worth of goods with American manufacturers. If the railroads secure the relief this week, that they should, idle labor will soon find employment and good times will follow."

England military authorities state that within the next twelve months they will have an army of over a million trained men in the field but they do not say what they will do in the interim between now and the twelve months time. Perhaps they expect Germany to tire and retire from the fighting line. What the Allies need now is the million fighting men not twelve months from now."

Congressman Cooper should have but little opposition at the polls in November and should be returned to congress where he is going to be badly needed in the next session when the republicans will seek to rehabilitate the business of the country the democratic spoliemen have sought to destroy.

It is strange that the ultra progressives are so anxious to pass the ten proposed amendments. They realize that unless they do it will mean that the actual desires of the people themselves can not be recognized even if the present republican ticket, state and legislative, is elected.

Whittier and Winegar will make a good pair for Rock county voters to send to Madison this coming winter to help in the great work of bringing the taxes of the state down to where they belong and stopping this wasteful expenditure of money.

On The Spur of The Moment

The Fall Housecleaning. The beds are piled up in the barn and pa sleeps in the sink. Us kids sleep in the bath tub, which is pleasant, I don't think. The kitchen range is inside out, the carpets upside down. We've got the neatest looking house, I guess in this man's town.

For 'most a week our pa and ma ain't said a pleasant word. I shouldn't be surprised at all if a divorce occurred. Pa says it is a doggone shame and makes him might sore. It seems to him the gold dust house was clean enough before.

We're camping out and eatin' all our meals now standin' up. It's been a week since we have had a real clean knife or cup. Pa says what is the dog gone use of diggin' in like sin. When in a week, the house will be all dirtied up ag'in.

Us kids get licked three times a day if we need it or not. It's dangerous to stand around in almost any spot. The hired girl resigned her job when ma had just begun. Housecleanin' is hygienic, but it surely ain't no fun.

Some Peace Casualties. We lamp the following the news of the day:

"James O'Keefe, a janitor, was burned last night when a bowl of hot soup fell on him when he bumped a man carrying the liquid while wrestling with a fellow roomer. James F. Yates volunteered to move a neighbor yesterday. When the wagon was loaded with furniture Yates got on to ride to the new home. On the way the branch of a tree struck the piano and pushed it over on Yates. He was injured about the back and neck."

"While ringing a bell standing upon the upper platform of a windmill at a charity party at the home of a newly married couple, Alva Moore was shot in the breast by some unknown celebrant."

"Haste to close his desk in his office resulted disastrously for John C. Poepple. Poepple said, he pulled down the roller top of his desk with his left hand, but neglected to remove his left hand from underneath it. An examination revealed that several small bones on his right hand had been fractured."

"Oh, peace and neutrality, where is thy boasted security? Overlooked. God placed a soul within the self. And all the humbleness of mankind. Who labor and are sore oppressed. And who are beaten and maltreated."

God placed a soul within the man. Who labors to accomplish things. He didn't miss the humble, but I guess He overlooked the kings."

Signs of the Times. The children are not so very particular after all. They will probably be satisfied with a lemonade for apparently nothing decisive will happen to Turkey until Thanksgiving. South African Boers donate all the tobacco used by English soldiers in Europe. It wasn't so back in 1899-1901.

Trade report says shoes will be higher soon. Yes, indeed, it is almost impossible to lay aside the oxford. If they join forces will it be the Progressives or the Republicans who "come back into the fold"? It appears that there are some liars also in Belgium.

DONALD CERTIFIES TO COUNTY CLERKS

Secretary of State Certifies as to Names That Shall Appear on Ballot at Fall Election.

County Clerk H. W. Lee received this morning the Secretary of State Donald's certification as to the names of candidates that shall appear on the ballots for the coming November election. In addition to the primary nominations on the republican, democratic, prohibition, and social democratic tickets, there will be columns on the official ballot for two independent lists, one headed by J. J. Blaine of Hoscote, independent candidate for governor, and another headed by John Vierthaler of Milwaukee, also candidate for governor under the socialist labor denomination. Blaine's name will be the only one appearing in his column, but the socialist labor aggregation has nominations for all the state offices. The secretary of state sends a sample official ballot to show how arrangement shall be made on the ticket for the first and second choice vote on the United States senatorship. Following the primary of the candidates for this office, there will be two squares, one marked first choice and the other marked second choice, and following a blank line just below the name of the candidate there will also be two squares, one marked first choice and the other marked second choice. In that case a cross should be marked in the second choice square following Housh's name and after writing in McGovern's name a cross should be placed in the first choice square following it.

"I don't believe the voters will pay any attention to the second choice proposition," said Mr. Lee today. Most of them will vote the straight ticket. Two publications of the names of

MAJESTIC

There is a very bright little Edison comedy on tonight's program, one that we are quite sure you will enjoy. The title is "The Gilded Kidd" and Arthur Houseman plays the part of the boy whose father's money brought him out of all scrapes but one. Two acts.

The best available pictures from the scenes of the war are undoubtedly those secured by Hearst-Selig. We show these every Monday and Wednesday.

Tomorrow's program is unusually good, the players including Lillian Walker, Maurice Costello, Gertrude McCoy and other favorites. Lillian "Dimples" Walker appears in an excruciatingly funny comedy entitled "The Lost Cord," while Maurice Costello appears in "The Mysterious Lodger." Miss McCoy appears in a corking good railroad story, "The President's Special."

Mentioning Miss Walker reminds us that Wally Van, who works opposite her so often, appears Thursday in the comedy "The Band Leader." Whether you are following the "Million Dollar Mystery" or not, which is shown also that day, it would pay you to come and see this.

On next Saturday we have "Classmates," another Klav and Erlanger production, and as good as "The Fatal Wedding."

ITALIAN NOBLE WAS BURIED HERE TODAY

CONSTANTINO ANGELUCCI, SECTION LABORER, DIED FRIDAY OF ULCER IN STOMACH AT AGE OF 22.

UNIQUE CEREMONIES

Were Held This Morning—Moose Band Led Long Procession to Cemetery—Deceased Was Wealthy.

Far from his native land, mourned only by the simple laborers he had lived and worked among for the past four years, the mortal remains of Constantino Angelucci, said to be the son of an Italian noble living near Rome, Italy, was laid to rest at Mt. Olivet cemetery this morning. Although not filling a minor position with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, Angelucci was stationed in the city, and was loved by his fellow countrymen who sincerely mourn his demise and showed their last respects to the departed with a funeral cortege befitting his rank and station had he remained in his native land.

Led by the Moose band from Ryan undertaking rooms on South Main street at eight-thirty the cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church, where Father Michael Delaney, the funeral mass and Father Delaney, priest at Mercy Hospital, delivered the funeral mass in Italian. Then came the long march to the beautiful Catholic cemetery, where the final rites were read and the remains laid in their last resting place.

Constantino Angelucci was nearly twenty-two. For the past five years, since leaving his native land, he has been employed with a section force of the St. Paul road. He worked with his fellow workers in a converted box car near Pearl street. Taken ill a week ago, he suffered intensely, all that his fellow countrymen, Father Delaney and medical skill could do being in vain and on Friday afternoon he passed away after a violent hemorrhage which sapped his vitality. Refusing for a time to be taken to Mercy Hospital, his friends insisted to go but a few hours before his sudden death.

Leaving home when but seventeen he came to America to make his fortune. He was a man of great energy and careful, a good friend and advisor to his fellow workers, he left in local banks and at the Bank of Rome, substantial savings of his years of work. The funeral today, the band, the church services, the respect shown to the departed, all speak most highly of the esteem he was held in. He had no relatives in this country but a cousin residing in Beloit, Carlo Carfagna, who was present today. The services at the grave were in charge of Father Delaney and were in Italian. The floral tributes of his friends were unusually beautiful and profuse. The pallbearers were fellow countrymen and were: Sam Salerno, Mike Palatino, Bill Rosse, Frank Orkum, Peter Bozzo and Mike Garancia, with R. Palmer as master of ceremonies.

William Spaulding. Death came to William Spaulding at 10:25 o'clock this morning at his residence, 1214 Mineral Point avenue, after an illness which had lasted for eight years. Mr. Spaulding is sixty-eight years of age and has been a resident of this city for the past forty years.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and Mrs. David Kane, Mrs. Lillie Woodford, Miss Lillie Spaulding, Miss Mary Spaulding and Miss Mary Nichols, nieces, all of Janesville. He is survived by other relatives who reside in other cities. Funeral announcements will be given later.

AGED NEGRO FOUND LIVING IN WOODS

Sheriff Whipple Discovers Negro Who Seeks To Cure Ills By Nature's Means.

Sheriff C. S. Whipple and Turnkey William Wogan, this afternoon, found William Dorsey, a negro 68 years of age, in the Clarke woods which are about two miles from Janesville on the Milwaukee road. This morning farmhand complained to Sheriff Whipple that a negro was living a hermit's life in the Clarke woods and no one could engage the man for information regarding him. Dorsey was found sleeping beneath a tree and was brought to the county jail late this afternoon. He said that he had been ill for the past three weeks and for the greater part of this time had lived in the woods despite the incessant rains and inclement weather during that time. Rainy nights he slept in an abandoned house, and during the day he worked the land and gathered taken from the farmers' fields. The negro at one time worked at the Fairbank Morse plant at Beloit and was known by both Sheriff Whipple and Turnkey Wogan. "Back to nature" proved a benefit to the colored man's health and the county authorities will release him after he has been given medical attention if it is necessary.

WOMAN'S HISTORY CLUB IN SESSION SATURDAY. NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

The Woman's History club met on Saturday afternoon with Mrs. A. F. Hall on South Second street, who entertained the club at a one o'clock luncheon, which was a very delightful affair, served in four courses to about thirty-five guests. Mrs. Hall was re-elected as president of the club for 1914. At three o'clock a business meeting was held. Miss Emma Richardson, secretary, gave a report of the year's work. The program for the year 1915 will be lectures and topics on "The Power of Ideals," and "Personalities in American History." The lectures will be given by Professor R. B. Way of Beloit college, and will cost $25.00 to the Free Club Clinics, which has been promoted by the Civic league, to purchase instruments and material. The officers for the coming year that were elected were: Mrs. Frances Grant, president; Mrs. David Holmes, vice-president; and Miss Sarah Sutherland, secretary. The first meeting of the season will be held at library hall on October 31st.

JANESVILLE WOMEN SHARE IN PROGRAM

Mrs. Edwin O. Kimberley Gives Response to Welcome Address at D. A. R. State Convention.

Mrs. Edwin O. Kimberley, honorary state regent, returned from Madison D. A. R. conference Saturday evening, where she gave the response to the address of the president, and received marked attention as the first daughter in Wisconsin, and assisted in receiving at the reception tendered the president general who gave an address to the daughters, which was well received, in the beautiful assembly chamber of the capitol.

Friday afternoon Miss Mary Atwood a daughter very much loved, gave a report on Real Daughters. There are now seven in the state. Mrs. Louise K. Threlks celebrated her centennial birthday this month. She sent loving greetings to her daughters, written with her own hand. She rode in the first steamboat on the Hudson river, the "Pumpkin Seed."

Mrs. Story, president of the daughters, congratulated Miss Atwood at the close of the report, as being a relative of Mrs. Amos G. Draper, the capable daughter of the American Monthly Magazine. Miss Atwood spoke of the great difference in national aid of our honorary regent, Mrs. Draper.

It was with much reluctance Mrs. Kimberley left greetings and regrets with Miss Atwood for the banquet at the Hotel Pflaster in Milwaukee Saturday for the president general and Miss Finch, also the reception to be held at the Athenaeum. These functions were tendered by six societies of club women. Mrs. Kimberley was the guest of her friend, Mrs. George Pierce, at her home, "Old Castle," formerly owned by Madam Conover, sister of Gov. Fairchild, a beautiful and historic old place, built by the contractor of the first capitol building. The marble was shipped from Italy and the wrought iron from Sweden, sixty years ago. It is four stories, with a special staircase, one of the finest places in Madison.

GIRL CHARGES EVANSVILLE YOUTH WITH SERIOUS OFFENSE

Charges of a statutory nature were made against Frank Milbrandt of Evansville by Miss Harriet Maynard, of Evansville, age 19, in the municipal court this morning in Milbrandt's examination on the state's charges. The hearing was held behind locked doors, the witnesses being prohibited from hearing the testimony. District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie and M. O. Mout are prosecuting the case and Attorney Thomas S. Nolan is defending Milbrandt. The matter was during the greater part of the morning session, being subjected to close cross examination by Attorney Nolan, the defense claiming that Milbrandt was not alone guilty of the offense.

CITY COMMISSIONERS ARE APPOINTED STATE DELEGATES

All three members of the city commission, Mayor James A. Patterson and Councilmen Roy Cummings and Goodman, received notice of appointment as state delegates from Janesville to attend the Northwestern road congress which will be held in Milwaukee from Oct. 28 to the 31st. It is probable that at least one of the commissioners will attend the convention, for national experts on street and highway questions will be present at the meeting.

ALLEGED WOMAN CROOK APPREHENDED AT SPOONER

Last week Chief of Police P. D. Champion received a telegram from Chief of Police C. H. Troyer, at Duluth, Minnesota, that a woman named Vora Turnbull, who had been a crook, had escaped capture and had purchased a ticket to Janesville. Careful watch by the police here failed to find the woman. This morning a telegram was received that Miss Turnbull had been arrested at Spooner, Wis., having attempted to throw the detectives off the track by changing her railroad route from Janesville to Spooner. It is said the woman stole a large amount of merchandise from Duluth stores.

MILLIONS AT STAKE IN LEGAL BATTLE

Mrs. Elzy G. Burkham.

A suit to break the will of James Campbell, multimillionaire broker and traction magnate of St. Louis, Mo., has just been filed by his nieces and nephews, one of the allegations being that James Campbell died "without leaving" a child or children. In James Campbell introduced Lois Ann Campbell as his daughter at her debut in St. Louis and New York a year ago, and in his will he not only referred to her as his daughter but also bequeathed to her and to his wife equal shares of his estate. Miss Campbell became the wife of Elzy G. Burkham, a St. Louis civil engineer, on September 15.

IMPETUS IS GIVEN CITY LIGHT PLAN

Commercial Club Hears Municipal Engineer on Lighting of Downtown Business Section.

Illumination of the business streets was the main topic of discussion at the regular meeting and luncheon of the Janesville Commercial Club this afternoon. Mayor James Patterson, Councilman Goodman and Cummings were present, as was Hans E. Seidl, public service engineer of Chicago. Mr. Seidl has been retained by a Milwaukee firm and came to Janesville on invitation of the club to inform them and Janesville as a whole of the advisability of the installation of the modern illumination systems. The club took favorable action on the proposition of the company represented by Mr. Seidl and a sample, mini-unit standard, fully equipped will be installed in the downtown section as a sample, with no expense to the city or to the club.

LAKOTA CLUB INITIATION WILL TAKE PLACE TONIGHT

Members of the Lakota club will hold their first initiation of the season tonight in their rooms over the Sherer drug store on West Milwaukee street. Five new members will be taken into the organization and a sample will conclude the evening's activities.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE SHABBY MAN.
THERE is a man in our neighborhood whom I greatly admire. He is almost always shabbily dressed and he does not mind. The combination of these two facts is the basis of my admiration. To be able to rise above clothes, to be bigger than one's bank account as displayed on one's back, is the hallmark of a real man or woman.

This man's business is one which will not be advanced by the hollow professions of generosity, which so many men feel absolutely obliged to put up. And his home expenses are such that he cannot do justice to his family, pay his bills, have money for some of the worth-while things of life, such as books, music and outdoor life, and he well dressed. So he has made his choice, and to my mind, at least, it is a wise one.

Incidentally he is much with people who are wealthier than he and they like him and welcome him. Indeed, why shouldn't they? He has a fine mind and excellent manners; he is the best of good company and a true friend. He is so entirely unconscious of his clothes that he makes others unconscious of them. I love to see him set out with a shabby suit that he has worn three or four years, a last year's hat and shabby shoes to call on the wealthiest people in our neighborhood. I know that they will be delighted to see him and the thought of it makes me feel that there is much that is wholesome and true in human nature if we only have the courage and gentleness to appeal to it.

Now, do not misunderstand me—I am not promulgating a gospel of Shabbiness, but a gospel of the courage that keeps shabbiness from being felt as a disgrace. I believe that it is the duty of every man and woman to look as well as they can. But I have my own ideas on two things.

In the first place, I don't think anyone can afford to dress so well that he must sacrifice, books or generosity or music or honesty, or any of the other really worthwhile things of life to do it. In the second place, by "well" I don't necessarily mean expensively. The desire to look well is one thing; to desire to look as if your clothes cost a lot of money is another, but we are apt to confuse the two. An inexpensive gown in the style of the year before last may be more becoming to a woman than her expensive new gown made in the very latest mode. Yet she considers herself well dressed in the latter and not in the former. I hold just the opposite view.

It is not possible to look expensive unless one's clothes are in the latest style and of costly material. But any of us can look well by wearing clothes that are cut on attractive lines and made of becoming material. To look attractive is a natural desire and an ideal worth striving for. But to set one's heart on exciting envy by looking as if your clothes cost a lot of money is an unworthy ambition and I honor all who try to free themselves from it.

Miss Bowers Bride Of Robert A. Taft

Miss Doris Haywood.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The wedding day of Robert A. Taft, son of former president and Mrs. William Howard Taft, and Miss Doris Haywood, daughter of the late Lloyd W. Bowers, solicitor-general during a part of the Taft administration, was of absorbing interest to official and diplomatic society.

The former president and Mrs. Taft had arrived in Washington for the marriage, with Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Taft, Horace Taft, Miss Louise Taft, Charles P. Taft, Jr., and Mrs. John Hays Hammond.

The ceremony was performed at St. John's Episcopal church at noon, Saturday, Rev. Roland Cotton Smith officiating.

tomato; on them lay thick tomato slices, sprinkle tomatoes with a very little minced onion and green pepper and some finely chopped celery. Add salt, a dash of cayenne, and a thick layer of grated American cheese. Put all into shallow pan and set under gas broiler till cheese melts and browns and tomato is cooked.

"Apple Fool"—Here is recipe for an apple pudding that has many times helped to make our family a satisfying dinner. "Apple Fool," it has been called. Invert a large cup in round pudding pan; arrange sliced tart apples around this to the height of cup. Sprinkle plenty of sugar over this, then flour and dot with butter. Season with cold water or cinnamon. Pour in water until you can see it near top apples. Cover the top with crust and press close to edges of pan and slit crust across top of cup. Bake from 20 to 25 minutes, or until apples are done.

Crust—Two cups flour sifted with two teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Rub in two tablespoons lard or butter and moisten with cold water or milk. Roll about one inch thick. When serving cut each portion away from cup and put in dishes. Now turn the cup over and you will find your pudding sauce all inside with no extra trouble and no soggy crust, doing away with expense of cream.

FRESH AIR NEEDED IN WINTER MONTHS

Health Officer Buckmaster Gives Practical Lesson for Health of City and Community.

Always present to the physical welfare and betterment of Janesville, City Health Officer S. B. Buckmaster has given a number of practical pointers to the people of the community. Dr. Buckmaster lays stress on the necessity of fresh air and ventilation and in an interview with a Gazette reporter said:

"Always bear in mind that fresh air is just as important in winter time as it is essential in summer. Many people seem to think that all fresh air must come from their homes in cold weather. As a result much sickness prevails that could easily be avoided.

"It has been clearly demonstrated to the satisfaction of all that disease thrives in the cold, isolated and damp places. Therefore do not exclude fresh air and sunshine from your home because it pays to save a little fuel. Some people save fuel to pay the doctor.

"That 'Cleanliness is next to Godliness' was enunciated long ago and is a good slogan and if practiced by all the result in decreasing sickness will be amazing. Not only should your premises be cleaned for the winter but special attention should be given to the basement or cellar, which should be free from dampness, filth, rubbish and decaying vegetable matter.

"It is an extremely wise precaution to keep your feet dry; many colds are contributed to getting the feet wet or the ankles chilled. This is particularly true of children who will, despite all warnings, continue to play in the puddles.

"Take the past week for instance. Mothers have sent children to school without extra heavy clothing, without wet feet, damp clothes and from youths sit in the school room half a day and sometimes the entire day session without a dry garment. Yet some children live in spite of this.

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Hazel Morrison, you never meant to tell me you paid $35 for that hat!" exclaimed a young woman as she gazed at the artistic creation on her friend's head.

"And why not, pray? That is not much to pay for a hat. My millinery bill last winter was $80."

"Where do you get so much money? Have you come into a legacy?"

"Herbert gives it to me; he just has it to do," she said with a toss of her pretty head.

"Some-times he does not like it, but he never makes a scene. Just the same, I am going to have what I think more of a woman if she stands up for her rights, especially if she is becomingly gowned," and her chin went up in the air.

"Her rights!" echoed her friend. "It is a woman's right to help her husband, not hinder him. Your husband gets a comparatively small salary and has nothing besides that to depend upon. Do you take no interest in getting ahead while you are young people?"

"I certainly am not going to bother about business," said Hazel; "that's a man's work. A woman's part is to look as pretty as she can, to make her husband happy, and to do what he wants, and she said, 'Herbert, do you want to see my new hat? I think it very becoming.'"

"Without waiting for a reply she went to her room and came back wearing the hat, whose price had called forth Julia's criticism.

"Don't you like it?" she asked, for her husband said nothing.

"How much was it?" he finally asked.

"Thirty-five dollars," she replied with a toss of her head.

"That makes $115 millinery bill unpaid," he said wearily. "I can understand why men defeat when they are wounded to death by bills."

"Why Herbert, what is the matter?" asked his wife removing the hat and sitting down beside him.

"You made a great mistake when you married a poor man. You can not be happy without expensive clothes and I can not pay for them. I had no new suit this summer as you may have noticed. But we are running behind getting deeper and deeper into debt every month. There is over $150 due at Blank's store, besides the $50 dressmaking bill. Where do you get it and?"

Mrs. Morrison sat looking at him, a picture of woe.

"Am I so extravagant? I always had these things."

"That is just the point. If I had used any sense I might have known I could not support you in your former style. Mother and father have brought up a family, saved a home and have money in the bank and father never earned as much as I am getting now. Naturally I thought I was earning enough to permit me to marry."

Herbert, you are not sorry you married me, are you?" she asked, her voice breaking.

"Sorry on your account, yes, but it was for better or for worse. That is not the point. We have got to find a way out of it somehow."

By this time his wife was crying softly into a cushion of a handkerchief. "I will take the hat back," she wailed. "I only got it on approval."

"Now that sounds like business," said the young man, tenderly taking her hand. "Now, stop crying and let's talk sense about this thing. That's what I should have done long ago."

"I will give you a certain amount to run the house and a personal allowance, but just as big as my salary will permit, but we must put some money aside every month for the debts."

"I hope I can learn, she replied. "I am such a stupid at figures."

"Of course you can learn. I will help you. We will go over the grocer's account tonight. Run and get the slips that I saw on a nail in the pantry."

"Right," she called gaily, and ran out of the room.

Believe me, Julia, a man thinks more of a woman if she stands up for her rights, especially if she is becomingly gowned, and her chin went up in the air.

"Her rights!" echoed her friend. "It is a woman's right to help her husband, not hinder him. Your husband gets a comparatively small salary and has nothing besides that to depend upon. Do you take no interest in getting ahead while you are young people?"

"I certainly am not going to bother about business," said Hazel; "that's a man's work. A woman's part is to look as pretty as she can, to make her husband happy, and to do what he wants, and she said, 'Herbert, do you want to see my new hat? I think it very becoming.'"

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am fourteen years old and in the eighth grade.

(1) Am I far enough advanced?
(2) I wear my dresses to my ankles. Is that too long?
(3) Is it wrong for me to go to the show with a boy of about seventeen years of age if he is decent?
(4) Give me a recipe for some cheap home-made candy.
(5) How could I give an entertainment to a few of my friends and what could I serve?
(6) BRUNETTE.
(1) Nearly.
(2) About the right length.
(3) Fourteen is too young to go out alone with a boy. You should have some member of your family with you.
(4) Whip whites of eggs to stiff froth and stir confectioner's sugar into them until they are creamy. Could be shaped. Put half of English walnut on top, or open dates, remove seed and put creamy candy inside.
(5) A delightful way to entertain in the fall is give a beanie picnic. Toast wieners on sticks and put them between slices of bread, or roast bacon and make bacon sandwiches. Potatoes are excellent heavily coated with mud and roasted in the coals, then break the mud away and eat potatoes out of the skins with spoon. Toast marshmallows for dessert. Add pickles and cake to this and you have a good menu. Coffee if desired, made on the coals.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Kindly give me recipe for green tomato mince meat and the meat mince meat.

Green Tomato Mince Meat—One peck green tomatoes run through meat grinder. Pour off liquor and cover with cold water. Bring to a boiling point and drain three times. Add two quarts chopped apples, two pounds raisins, four pounds granulated sugar, one pound chopped suet, two tablespoons salt, one cup vinegar. Cook about one hour until thick, then add one and one-half teaspoons each of cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg. Can as you do ordinary mince meat. This is delicious and absence of meat cannot be detected.

Mince Meat—A good proportion is one-third chopped meat to two-thirds tart apples with a little suet, raisins, currants, citron. Spices in this proportion: One part cloves, ginger, two parts cinnamon and nutmeg. Cook with cider or vinegar and water if that cannot be obtained. Candied lemon and orange peel. Add a fine flavor. Let stand several days before using.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please give me a recipe for chow chow made of green tomatoes.

How can you preserve pumpkin—and pumpkin we can use for pies in winter. I have two 515ETS.

Pumpkin Preserves—Pare fruit and cut in strips two inches long. Weigh and put in preserving kettle, pour on half of water and let it come to a boil. Drain and repeat this process. Add an equal amount of sugar and for one pumpkin the rind of two lemons and ginger to taste. Cook until clear; when done it can be pierced with a straw.

Pumpkin for Pies—Pumpkin for pies is very good dried. Cut it very thin. When wanted for pies soak over night and boil slowly until tender. It makes excellent pies.

Chowchow—One gallon green tomatoes, three sweet peppers, two large onions. Chop fine. Add three pints vinegar, four tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon ginger, one tablespoon cinnamon. This makes three quarts.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please give me the name and address of a good clairvoyant?

My dear girl, I do not know of any clairvoyant and I surely could not recommend one if I did. Never go to one. They can do you no good and great mischief and trouble has resulted from seeking to find out what they profess to tell you.

Thought Gorilla a Myth.

It is a strange fact of natural history that the gorilla was unknown to science until the middle of the last century, when there was a migration of the animals from the interior of Africa towards the coast, probably in quest of food. The first scientific investigation of the great ape was made by an American missionary, Rev. Leighton Wilson. He was met with fears that "there ain't no such animal," until, towards the close of 1846, he obtained a skull and sent it to the Boston Museum of Natural History.

Every Day Talks To Every Day People

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

A gas plate may not be as convenient as a gas range, but one can cook for a good-sized family and manage very nicely if they plan how and when to bake. The difference in price is something to be considered and as the people who think they have enough money to satisfy their needs are the ones who are the most curious, for as your salary grows your needs seem to mount. In the difference in the price of a three burner gas plate and a range is of some consequence to many of us.

When you plan on a gas plate procure a good one from your grocer or drygoods merchant. A packing case 35x25x30 inches in size, cover the top with tin, paint inside and out, tack an oilcloth curtain across the open box in front and with your gas plate connected and placed upon the tin covered top of this box, you will have the most convenient stove imaginable for the amount of money expended.

The oven will fit inside the box when not in use, along with many of the cooking utensils. If desired, nails can be put inside on a small clear glass plate connected and placed upon the paper lined bottom of the improvised cupboard, beside the oven. This is a good place to keep the bread mixer, as its size prohibits its being kept in many of the ordinary sized cupboards. Until you have tried this or a similar plan, you have no idea how many utensils can be kept right under your hand, ready for use, by simply reaching for them.

Again, the top of the box being twenty-five inches wide and the average gas plate about seventeen inches in width, leaves a space of eight or nine inches, that, being covered with tin, will admit of your setting hot dishes on it, where you would have to carry them to the kitchen cabinet or table. A few steps are saved here with every food prepared and when you stop to sum this all up, it mounts high—for just one meal.

A gasoline or oil stove can be fixed in like manner, only do not have your box so high as the frame of these stoves are built higher and a lower box needs be used.

It may be thought that an arrangement like the one described is inconvenient, but if fixed as specified, it is an addition in looks as well as in efficiency to any kitchen belonging to people of moderate means.

Over the burner that the oven does not rest on in baking, can be nailed a box made of thin lumber, painted white, with a shelf running through the center. Have this box size 15x14x16 and this will nicely hold the saucers and many other small articles needed in the preparing of a meal. They are right under one's hand so here again, many steps can be saved.

When you read a suggestion like the above do you pass it by in silence or do you try it out? You never know until you do try what you can do your individual kitchen and to eliminate all unnecessary steps in the preparation of a meal is efficiency of a brand which every woman should introduce into her home. The cost of these things is infinitesimal when the good obtainable is considered, as both boxes can be purchased for fifty, and you will have enough left to fix a box for over your kitchen sink. This work can be done by the woman of the house and while faint may be found with this plan, if it be borne in mind that these plans are for kitchens that are not now convenient, it will be readily conceded that your head can save your heels.

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am fourteen years old and in the eighth grade.

(1) Am I far enough advanced?
(2) I wear my dresses to my ankles. Is that too long?
(3) Is it wrong for me to go to the show with a boy of about seventeen years of age if he is decent?
(4) Give me a recipe for some cheap home-made candy.
(5) How could I give an entertainment to a few of my friends and what could I serve?
(6) BRUNETTE.
(1) Nearly.
(2) About the right length.
(3) Fourteen is too young to go out alone with a boy. You should have some member of your family with you.
(4) Whip whites of eggs to stiff froth and stir confectioner's sugar into them until they are creamy. Could be shaped. Put half of English walnut on top, or open dates, remove seed and put creamy candy inside.
(5) A delightful way to entertain in the fall is give a beanie picnic. Toast wieners on sticks and put them between slices of bread, or roast bacon and make bacon sandwiches. Potatoes are excellent heavily coated with mud and roasted in the coals, then break the mud away and eat potatoes out of the skins with spoon. Toast marshmallows for dessert. Add pickles and cake to this and you have a good menu. Coffee if desired, made on the coals.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Now Father Knows as Much as He Did Before

BY F. LEIPZIG

The Last Shot

By FREDERICK PALMER

(Copyright, 1914, by Charles Scribner's Sons)

"I certainly like that song," he said. Well he might. It had made him famous throughout the nation. "There's Jehovah and brimstone in it. Now we'll have our own."

"But we're always losing positions!" complained one of the men. "Little by little they are getting possession."

"They say the offensive always wins," said another.

"Five against three? They count on numbers," said Lieutenant Tom Frazini.

"There you go, Tom! Any other pessimists or anarchists want to be heard?" called out Stransky. "Just how long, at the present rate, will it take them to get the whole range? There's a limit to the number of even five millions."

Then the telephone in the redoubt brought some news. The staff begged to inform the army that the enemy's casualties in the last three days had been two hundred thousand. "Immediately" everybody was talking at once in Stransky's parliament, as he sometimes called that company of which he was, in the final analysis, unlimited monarch.

"How do they know?"

"Do you think it's fake?"

"That sums up to pretty near a million!"

"My God! Think of it—a million!"

"We're whitening them down!"

"It doesn't make any difference whether Partow or Lanstron is chief of staff!"

"They're paying!"

"Paying for our fellows that they've killed! Paying for being in the wrong!"

Stransky, his eyes drawing inward in their characteristic slant, was well pleased with his company, and the scattered exclamatory badinage kept on until it was interrupted by the arrival of the mail. Partow and Lanstron, understanding their machine as human in its elements, had chosen that the army should hear from home.

"How's this?" exclaimed one man, reading from a newspaper. "They're going to put up a statue of Partow in the capital! It's to show him as he died, dropped forward on the map, and in front of his desk a field of bayonets."

PROVISIONS FOR THE ARMY IN THE FIELD.

Importance of keeping body well nourished.

In time of war, the greatest effort is always made toward cutting off the enemy's base of supplies. It is the well-nourished people who fight the strongest and live the longest and contribute most to human progress.

Is your stomach doing its duty—does it convert food into good blood and tissue?

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been so successful in the treatment of indigestion, that thousands of former sufferers owe their good health to-day to its wonderful power, and testimonials prove it.

It arouses the little muscular fibres to activity and causes the gastric juices to thoroughly mix with the food you eat, simply because it supplies the stomach with pure, rich blood. It's weak, impure blood that causes stomach weakness. Get good blood through the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you will have no more indigestion.

It is the world's proved blood purifier. It's not a secret remedy for ingredients are printed on the wrapper. Start to take it to-day and before another day has passed, the purities of the blood will begin to move your body through the liver, kidneys, bowels and skin, and in a few days you will know by your clearer nerves, firmer step, keener mind, brighter eye and clearer skin that the bad blood is passing out and new, rich, pure blood is filling your veins and arteries.

The same good blood will cause pimples, acne, eczema and all skin eruptions, scabs, eczema, and all skin diseases. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the helpful remedy that nearly everyone needs. It contains no alcohol or narcotics of any kind.

On one face of the base will be his name. Two of the other faces will have 'God with us!' and 'Not for theirs, but for ours!' The legend on the fourth face the war is to decide. "Victory! Victory!" cried those who had listened to the announcement. Stransky was thinking that they had to do more than hold the Grays. Before he should see his girl they had to take back the lost territory. He carried two pictures of Minna in his mind: one when she had struck him in the face as he tried to kiss her and the other as he said good-bye at the kitchen door. There was not much encouragement in either.

"But when she gets better acquainted with me there's no telling!" he kept thinking. "I was fighting out of cowardness at first. Now I'm fighting for her and to keep what is ours!"

CHAPTER XIX.

The Ram. In the closet of the Galland library, where the long-distance telephone was installed, Westerling was talking with the premier in the Gray capital.

"Your total casualties are eight hundred thousand. That is terrific, Westerling!" the premier was saying.

"Only two hundred thousand of those are dead!" replied Westerling. "Many with only slight wounds are already returning to the front. Terrific, do you say? Two hundred thousand in five millions is one man out of twenty-five. That wouldn't have worried Frederick the Great or Napoleon much. Eight hundred thousand is one out of six. The trouble is that such vast armies have never been engaged before. You must consider the percentages, not the totals."

"Yet, eight hundred thousand! If the public knew!" exclaimed the premier.

"The public does not know!" said Westerling.

"They guess. They realize that we stopped the soldiers' letters because they told bad news. The situation is serious."

"Why not give the public something to think about?" Westerling demanded.

"I've tried. It doesn't work. The murmurs increase. I repeat, my fears of a rising of the women are well grounded. There is mutiny in the air. I feel it through the columns of the press, though they are censored. I—"

"Then, soon I'll give the public something to think about, myself!" Westerling broke in. "The dead will be forgotten. The wounded will be proud of their wounds and their fathers and mothers triumph when our army descends the other side of the range and starts on its march to the Browns' capital."

"But you have not yet taken a single fortress!" persisted the premier. "And the Browns report that they have lost only three hundred thousand men."

"Lanstron is lying!" retorted Westerling hotly. "But no matter. We have taken positions with every attack and kept crowding in closer. I ask nothing better than that the Browns remain on the defensive, leaving initiative to us. We have developed their weak points. The resolute offensive always wins. I know where I am going to attack; they do not. I shall not give them time to reinforce the defense at our chosen point. I have still plenty of live soldiers left. I shall go in with men enough this time to win and to hold."

"The army is yours, Westerling," concluded the premier. "I admire your stolidity of purpose. You have my confidence. I shall wait and hold the situation at home the best I can. We go into the hall of fame or into the gutter together, you and I!"

For a while after he had hung up the receiver Westerling's head drooped, his muscles relaxed, giving mind and body a release from tension. But his spine was as stiff as ever as he left the closet, and he was even smiling to give the impression that the news from the capital was favorable.

When he called his chiefs of division it was hardly for a staff council. Stunned by the losses and repulses, loyally industrious, their opinions unasked, they listened to his whirlwind of orders without comment—all except Turcas.

"If they are apprised of our plan and are able to concentrate more artillery than our guns can silence, the losses will be demoralizing," he observed.

Westerling threw up his head, frowning down the objection.

"Suppose they amount to half the forces that we send in!" he exclaimed.

"Isn't the position, which means the pass and the range, worth it?"

"Yes, if we both take and hold it; not if we fail," replied Turcas, quite unaffected by Westerling's manner.

"Failure is not in my lexicon!" Westerling said back. "My great plan

there must be great risks." "We prepare for the movement, your excellency," answered Turcas.

It was a steel harness of his own will that Westerling wore, without admitting that it galled him, and he laid it off only in Maria's presence. With her, his growing sense of isolation had the relief of companionship. She became a kind of mirror of his egoism and ambitions. He liked to have her think of him as a great man untroubled among weaker men. In the quiet and seclusion of the garden, involuntarily as one who has no confident speaks to himself, reserving solitude for his part before the staff, while she, under the spell of her purpose, silently, with serene and wistfully listening eyes, played hers, he outlined how the final and telling blow was to be struck.

"We must and we shall win!" he kept repeating.

Through a rubber disk held to his ear in the closet of his bedroom a voice, tremulous with nervous fatigue, was giving Lanstron news that all his aircraft and cavalry and spies could not have gained; news worth more than a score of regiments; news fresh from the lips of the chief of staff of the enemy. The attack was to be made at the right of Engadir, its center breaking from the redoubt manned by Fracasse's men.

"Marta, you genius!" Lanstron cried. "You are the real general! You—"

"Not that, please!" she broke in. "I'm as foul and depraved as a dealer in subtle poisons in the middle ages! Oh, the shame of it, while I look into his eyes and feign admiration, feign everything which will draw out his plans! I can never forget the sight of him as he told me how two or three or four hundred thousand men were to be crowded into a ram, as he called it—a ram of human flesh!—and guns enough in support, he said, to tear any redoubts to pieces; guns enough to make their shells as thick as the bullets from an automatic!"

"Well, meet ram with ram! We'll have some guns, too!" exclaimed Lanstron. "We'll send as heavy a shell fire at their infantry as they send into our redoubts."

"Don't. It's too like Westerling. It has become too trite!" she protested. "The end! If I really were helping toward that and to save lives and our country to its people, what would my private feelings matter? My honor, my soul—what would anything matter? For that, any sacrifice. I'm only one human being—a weak, lunatic sort of one, just now!"

"Marta, don't suffer so! You are overwrought. You—"

"I can say all that for you, Lanny," she interrupted with the faintest laugh. "The said it so many times to myself. Perhaps when I call you up again I shall not be so hysterical."

Lanstron was not thinking of war or war's combination when he hung up the receiver. It was some moments before he returned to the staff room, and then he had mastered his emotion. He was the soldier again.

An hour or so before the attack the telegraph instruments in the Galland house had become pregnantly silent. There were no more orders to give; no more reports to come from the troops in position until the assault was made. Officers of supply ceased to transmit routine matters over the wire, while they strained their eyes toward the range. Officers of the staff moved about restlessly, glancing at their watches and going to the windows frequently to see if the mist still held.

No one entered the library where Westerling was seated alone with nothing to do. His suspense was that of the mothers who longed for news of their sons at the front; his helplessness that of a man in a hospital lobby waiting on the result of an operation whose success or failure will save or wreck his career. The physical desire of movement, the conflict with something in his own mind, drove him out of doors.

Westerling was rather pleased with the fact that he could still smile; pleased with the loyalty of younger officers when, day by day, the staff had grown colder and more mechanical in the attitude that completed his isolation. Walking vigorously along the path toward the tower, the exercise of his muscles, the feel of the cool, moist air on his face, brought back some of the buoyancy of spirit that he craved. A woman's figure, with a cape thrown over the shoulders and the head bare, loomed out of the mist.

"I couldn't stay in—not to-night," Marta said as Westerling drew near. "I had to see. It's only a quarter of an hour now, isn't it?"

She seemed so utterly frail and distraught that Westerling, in an impulse of protection, laid his hand on her relaxed shoulders.

"Don't be a Goop!"

declared, "yours and mine? We must win, you and I. It is our destiny!"

"You and I?" repeated Marta. "Why you and I?"

It seemed very strange to be thinking of any two persons when hundreds of thousands were awaiting the signal for the death prepared by him. He mistook the character of her thought in the obsession of his egoism.

"What do lives mean?" he cried with a sudden desperation, his grip of her shoulders tightening. "It is the law of nature for man to fight. Unless he fights he goes to seed. One trouble with our army is that it was soft from the want of war. It is the law of nature for the fittest to survive! Other sons will be born to take the place of those who die to-night. There will be all the more room for those who live. Victory will create new opportunities. What is a million out of the billions on the face of the earth? Those who lead alone count—those who dwell in the atmosphere of the peaks, as we do!" The pressure of his strong hands in the unconscious emphasis of his passion became painful; but she did not protest or try to draw away, thinking of his hold in no personal sense but as a part of his self-revelation. "All—! Is it at stake there?" he continued, starting toward the range. "It's the Rubicon! I have put my career on tonight's cast! Victory means that the world will be at our feet—honor, position, power greater than that of any other two human beings! Do you realize what that means—the honor and the power that will be ours? I shall have directed the greatest army the world has ever known to victory!"

"And defeat means—what does defeat mean?" she asked narrowly, calmly; and the pointed question released her shoulders from the vise.

What had been a shadow in his thoughts became a live monster, striking him with the force of a blow. He forgot Marta. Yes, what would defeat mean to him? Sheer human nature broke through the bonds of mental discipline weakened by sleepless nights. Convulsively his head dropped as he covered his face.

"Defeat! Fail! That I should fail!" he moaned.

Then it was that she saw him in the reality of his littleness, which she had divined; this would-be conqueror. She saw him as his intimates often see the great man without his front of Jove. Don't we know that Napoleon had moments of privacy when he whined and threatened suicide? She wondered if Lanny, too, were like that—if it were not the nature of all conquerors who could not have their way. It seemed to her that Westerling was beneath the humblest private in his army—beneath even that fellow with the liver patch on his cheek who had broken the chandelier in the sport of brutal passion. All sense of her own part was submerged in the sight of a chief of staff exhibiting no more stoicism than a petulant, spoiled schoolboy.

While his head was still bent the artillery began its crashing thunders and the sky became light with flashes. His hands stretched out toward the range, clenched and pulsing with defiance and command.

A young Frenchman was being shown about Calderstones park by an English friend. "What a fine place this would make for shooting. Look at the birds flying about," said the Frenchman. The Englishman replied to the effect that, with certain exceptions, it was the spirit of the country to encourage bird life. The son of Gaul shook his head and observed half-sarcastically, "It does seem a pity that all this food should be flying around and no use made of it."

FORECAST WAS MADE OF PRESENT STRIFE

Novel, "Ruler of Kings," Written Ten Years Ago, Portrays Events That Have Occurred.

The New York Times' Review of Books, the literary section of the newspaper, under recent date, prints an article on Mrs. Abbott's novel, "Ruler of Kings." This particular book is but one of the many that forecasted the present world's strife and the coming events—at that time—which are now being enacted in Europe.

This book is on the shelves of the Janesville Public Library. It has been catalogued there for some time. It is a very interesting book and no doubt will be in considerable demand shortly. The book was written ten years ago. The article reads in part:

"Among all the comets which preceded the present European war, ranging from Tolstoy to Sophocles, none is more interesting than Mrs. Abbott's novel, 'Ruler of Kings,' published ten years ago. The 'rulers' it will be remembered, were two Americans, father and son, possessors of the largest fortune in the world. The son, Frederick Abbott, falls in love with the daughter of the Emperor of Austria and compels Francis Joseph to give her to him by offering to him and William II of Germany not only an unlimited treasure but a newly invented warlike which will wipe Russia and Turkey off the map, the alternative being that the kite will be offered to Russia."

"It is unnecessary at this late date to go into the merits of the story; its interest lies in its analysis of the character and ambition of William II, and in the author's view, expressed through her hero, that such a Kaiser has actually come to pass, though entered upon to perpetrate a benevolent imperialism, is bound finally to result in the spread of the democratic principle over Europe."

OUCH! BACKACHE!
RUB LUMBAGO OR STIFFNESS AWAY

Rub pain from back with small trial bottle of old "St. Jacob's Oil."

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has stiffened you up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints!

LIGHT MITCHELL CAR IN MONTH'S, TOUR
STOP HERE SUNDAY

Car on Reliability Run on Last Lap of Long Tour.—Bennet of Ma. Machine Still Sealed.

At noon Sunday the sealed-bonnet Mitchell light four car reached Janesville, covered from the radiator to the rear license number with good Wisconsin mud but still with the seal intact and the motor running perfectly. The car came here from Milwaukee, and after the three men in charge of the "mud-digger," Fred Zerbis, Ray Barnett and W. G. Halset, had dined and made minor repairs on the car, including a new tire, they departed for Elgin, Illinois, leaving Strimple's garage, where many had inspected the machine.

On September 23rd the car left Chicago in an attempt to negotiate 250 miles per day for thirty consecutive days, or 7,500 miles, reliability run. Chief of Police James Gleason of Chicago sealed the hood of the car, and up to the stop here the machine has traveled a total of 5,498 miles, this being the last leg of the run. This figure was taken from the speedometer. This distance has been traveled in twenty-six days, the remaining a wide territory over all kinds of into Pittsburgh, where the car will be exhibited in an auto show.

Starting from Chicago the car has visited at the following cities covering a wide territory over all kinds of roads from paved fifth avenue of New York to the sandy hills of Ohio, hilly roads in southern Illinois, clay mire in Kansas and Wisconsin stone highways. From Chicago the machine went to Toledo, Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo, Erie, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, back to Pittsburgh, then south to Cumberland, Maryland, back again to the Smoky City, and then west. After Indianapolis came Springfield, and beginning here the stamina of the car was put to a severe test, but so far has emerged with flying colors. At the Illinois state capital point was encountered and from this point the drivers did not see a ray of sunshine until Sunday morning coming from Milwaukee to Janesville.

Roads had deep in mud were said to have been the obstacles in the trip to St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Sioux City, up to St. Paul, and into Wisconsin the first state stop being at La Crosse. Baraboo was visited, and then the three drivers switched over to Milwaukee. From Elgin the car will be taken to Chicago to deliver the Chicago Police Gleason to inspect the chassis which bind the bonnet of the car, stopping all chance of motor repair or inspection.

Three tires have been used, only one original shoe being on the machine at the present time. In all the machine has been in twenty-four states and has not lost a day's time. The sun-browned, khaki clad tourists who are undertaking this feat showed the severe strains of the hardship of the tour in their stop here, but declared they would "be there at the finish." They take turns at driving, and when the odd man is not working he naps in the tonneau. Mr. Halset, who is a prominent auto dealer of Pittsburgh, declared that it was getting so that all of the men could sleep on a razor edge.

The last ten days were declared to be the hardest of the run, dropping tedious and nerve racking, but each of the drivers expressed great praise (as was expected) at the conduct of a horse—just beginning to show its real way on the way home.

Only an inkling of the inscriptions that covered the sides of the car could be made out because of the mud which completely coated the body. The axle were almost hidden from view and the running guards showed that they had sunk into the mire as far as the tool box. The salient facts of the tour is noted on the sides in chalk.

The tour left early in the afternoon from the Strimple garage, being anxious to make up a few miles that had been lost in the last week owing to unexpected and continuous adverse road conditions.

The last day of the trip demonstrates thoroughly the power of the modern automobile, for this four cylinder machine has been put through paces that seem unbelievable.

GERMANS WASTEFUL IN USE OF POWDER

Story of Bombardment of Fort Troy, on Shows Terrific Slaughter of Germans Troops.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) Paris, October 19.—Part of the story of the bombardment and assaults upon the fortress of Troyon has been told. The story from the inside shows how prodigal are the Germans with their powder. From the 5th to the 13th of September they fired more than 4000 shots from 2-inch, 8-inch and 10-inch guns.

The casualties in the fortress were 4 killed and 40 wounded, while the damage was inconceivable excepting from the fact that a German ten-inch mortar which dismantled a gun and dug a hole through masonry a yard and a half thick and penetrated two and a half yards of earth.

The fort sustained two assaults which, as is already known, were repulsed with great slaughter, 7,000 bodies having been found around the fort after one assault.

On two occasions an envoy was sent by the German commander who summoned the garrison to surrender in these terms: "In the name of His Imperial Majesty I summon you to surrender unconditionally! 'Never!' was the reply.

On the second visit of the envoy he complained severely of having been fired on by Fort Genicourt and declared after receiving the commandant's response "We shall meet again, governor."

After each visit of the envoy the bombardment resumed more furiously than ever and at times as many as 236 shots were fired in half an hour.

An artilleryman who took part in the defense of Maubeuge declares that the amount of powder burned there was even greater than at Troyon, he states during one day of the most furious bombardment, the Germans fired shells weighing 1,000 pounds each at the rate of four per minute. An aggregate of 1,080 tons of powder were used during the nine hours around the city.

LAXATIVE FOR A CROSS, CONSTIPATED, SICK CHILD, "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

A coated tongue means sluggish liver and bowels—Listen mother!

Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has sour stomach, diarrhoea, remember a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills. Give a teaspoonful and in just a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food, clogged in the bowels, passes out of the system and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless fruit laxative and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on each bottle.

Mother, keep it handy in your home. A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no cheaper size. Don't be fooled.

Letters Of Officials Expressed Gratitude At Red Cross Work

(Correspondence of The A. P.) Berlin, Oct. 19.—The following exchange of letters has taken place between the American Consul-General and the Lord Mayor of Dresden, according to Dresden newspapers received here:

"Consul General of the United States, Dresden."

"It has come to our knowledge that not a few members of the American colony in Dresden have entered the service of the Red Cross. At our recent general meeting we passed a resolution expressing to these members of the American colony the special thanks of the American colony of Dresden for their high-minded attitude."

"We request the highly esteemed consul general to kindly forward our resolution to the members of the colony concerned, and we grasp this opportunity to assure you that the city authorities will also do everything in order to render the stay of the American colony in Dresden during the war as comfortable as possible."

The American Consul-General sent the following reply:

"Dear Mr. Lord Mayor:

"I had the honor to receive your communication containing the information that the council of Dresden learned that various members of the American colony were engaged in making things for the Red Cross Society, and that at a recent meeting of the city council it was resolved to express to the American colony in Dresden the city's thanks for its interest in this charitable work. You had the kindness to request me to convey to the members of the colony this resolution of the council of Dresden. I shall not fail to inform my compatriots of your kind letter and will also take the liberty of sending a copy of the resolution to the State Department at Washington."

"I take this opportunity to express to you, my dear Mr. Lord Mayor, and through you to the other members of the council of the city of Dresden, my sincerest appreciation of the extraordinary courtesies which the city authorities and the inhabitants of Dresden have shown to the Americans here. Not only have they been treated with the greatest friendliness but I have also heard from British and French subjects who are colouring here of the more than magnanimous treatment which has been accorded them, and which they will never forget. Many hotel and boarding houses have permitted a great number of them to remain without paying, after having promised to settle the matter on their return home."

"I remain, my dear Mr. Lord Mayor and members of the City Council, with best respects,

Yours,
"Leo Allen Bergholz."

London Oct. 19.—The "British-German Friendship Society" has decided in view of the war to dissolve and to place its assets at disposal of the American Red Cross in London and Berlin for the support of needy British subjects in Germany and needy Germans in England.

National Geographic Society War Primer,

CASSEL.—From the isolated hill on which this town of northern France is built can be seen more than 30 towns and 100 villages of France, Belgium and England. It is 27 miles northwest of Lille, 6 miles from the Belgian border and 17 miles from the sea coast. The hill of Cassel attains an altitude of 544 feet. The place is supposed to have been the site of Castellum Moriorum of the Romans and was at one time strongly fortified. It was the scene of many important events during the middle ages. Lace, linen, soap, leather, oil, salt, artichokes, beer, and butter are among its outputs.

HAZEBROUCK.—A railroad town of northern France, 92 miles northwest of Lille and 9 miles from the Belgian border. It is the junction of lines running to Calais, Dunkerque, Lille, Bethune and many other important cities and towns. The town and its population of about 12,000 is made up principally of people in the employ of the railroads. The town is of no importance architecturally, its chief interest being the church of St. Eloi, built in the 16th century. The town is in the midst of an agricultural district and trades extensively in grain, hops and live stock. The population is largely engaged in cloth weaving.

ESTAIRES.—A town of northern France, 13 miles west of Lille and six miles from the Belgian border. The town and its population of about 5,000, there some manufacturing, with linen and soap as the chief products. The town is old-fashioned and unprogressive, but has changed but little in the last 50 years.

ENGLISHMAN'S VIEW IN A GERMAN PAPER

Claims Great Britain's Part in War is a Stain on Her History.—Article in Cologne Gazette.

The following statement of an Englishman residing in Germany appeared recently in a Cologne newspaper, a copy of which has been received by a Janesville woman who has made a translation of the same. The Briton blames England for entering the war and giving Japan a chance to take part. It is an unusual article and presents a new phase of the situation. It is as follows:

"Since the beginning of this war, several Englishmen now living in Germany, have given their opinion regarding the British government, and war party. I as one of these, who for the past twenty-seven years have lived in various parts of Germany, may perhaps be permitted to give my opinion. In spite of my long absence, I have always had the welfare of England at heart, and it has been my desire to see these two closely related countries live in peace and friendship. However, I am now positive that England's declaration of war will be an everlasting and indelible stain on her history, and in not distant future every honest Englishman will agree with me. How any European nation could give Japan such an opportunity to take part in this war and help decide the future of the white race in Europe, is more than any sensible person can understand. Yet, this is what England has done."

"It is simply self destruction and England will feel the consequences more than Germany. Should the English fleet be badly damaged in this war Japan would no doubt take advantage of it and with some other Asiatic nation turn the tables on England."

"In spite of my long residence here it is just recently that I have had the opportunity to know and respect the Germans. The first weeks of August gave me an insight of the German character. I never believed that any nation without regard to religious, political and social views of the four roads there. The place is famous because of the obstinate conflict between the French and the Allies on June 15, 1915, occurred there. The French were successful in the early stages but toward the close of the battle the tide turned decidedly in favor of the Allies, and the French were totally defeated. At that time the Duke of Wellington only escaped being captured by putting his horse to full gallop.

ROULERS.—A town of West Flanders, Belgium, on the Mandel, an affluent of the Scheldt, 12 miles by northeast of Ypres and 10 miles northwest of Courtrai, which was famous in the 11th and 12th centuries for its weavers. The French defeated the Austrians here during the conflict in July 1794. The inhabitants depend for their livelihood on the cultivation of flax and the manufacture of linen, leather, beer and spirits. The important pastures are rich and better forms an article of export. The town has had considerable growth in recent years and now has a population of about 26,000.

FURST.—A old-fashioned town of West Flanders, Belgium, 14 miles southwest of Oostend, three miles from the coast and four miles from the French border, noted for its spectacular and spectacular events in the life of Christ, which have been held annually since 1650. People from the whole of Belgium are attracted to this fête, in which the residents of the little town take the parts of Roman soldiers, priests, the apostles, officials and spectators. Wooden figures are even brought in to swell the magnitude of the performance. With the exception of this event the place is dull and of little importance. Corn, stock, hops and dairy products are traded in extensively. The town was destroyed by the Normans and has rebuilt in 870. Its population is about 7,000.

could take such united stand ready for any emergency. Bismarck surely spoke the truth when he said: 'The Germans fear God, but nothing else.' The world's 'Whoever lives a German may well be proud of it, proud of their wonderful organization, who can accomplish the impossible, and above all proud of their Kaiser, who for 26 years has worked unceasingly to maintain peace, but has now been forced to fight for his country's honor.

"It has been a revelation to me and I agree with the present chancellor who says that such a nation cannot be subdued. As I am not a German, I only hope that I will have the pleasure of continuing in their service and help in still further elevating their culture and education and industries. If I were a German I would be proud of it, but I cannot be proud of the fact that I am an Englishman."

SEEK MARKETS IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Commercial Men of Country Are Making Determined Efforts to Establish Commerce.

Since the commencement of hostilities abroad, which has had the effect of shutting off a great volume of export and import business between the United States and Europe, a determined effort is being made by manufacturers, importers and exporters toward seeking markets in other countries. Special trade committees and trade organizations have taken up the question in a broad manner with a view of establishing banking facilities and connections, arranging freight rates and transportation, and exploiting the advantage of dealing with the United States.

In line with what has been accomplished, it is noted that the Western Union Telegraph company announces, in a recent circular, a very substantial reduction in cable rates to the British and Danish West Indies, Turkey and the British Guinea. In some instances these reductions are as low as 25 cents per word. These reductions will be made to the exporters who have been doing an export business and by those who are seeking to extend their trade to those countries. The reductions made are in line with the desire of the telegraph company to assist in the extension of foreign trade.

CLOTHES-SPRINKLING CUP

Flow of Water Controlled By Means of a Trigger at the Handle.

For the purpose of aiding in the operation of sprinkling the clothes prior to the ironing, a resident of Canada has invented a cup which distributes the water very thoroughly and does it in a much more satisfactory manner than the old method of dipping the hand into the fluid and flinging it over the clothes. The new cup has a handle

FOR SPRINKLING THE CLOTHES and adjacent to the same, in a position convenient to the clothes, the thumb, there is a trigger which controls the flow of water through perforations in the bottom. Press the trigger and a score of tiny streams are released and flow in an even and gentle manner from the cup. Release the trigger and the flow is immediately stopped.

SCIENCE NOTES
A satchel with a burglar-alarm attachment is one of the latest ideas for protecting bank messengers and postmasters from thieves. Inside the satchel are bells and a revolver loaded with blank cartridges, under the control of a mechanism similar to the combination lock on a safe. As long as the satchel is in the hands of the messenger it is quiet; but as soon as he lets go of it the bells begin to ring and the revolver is fired.

The activity of the United States Fish Commission during the year ending June 30 last were greater than ever before, and this is said to be largely owing to the fact that the farmers of the country are beginning to realize the value of fish pond not only for its food value, but as a means of profit derived from the sale of fish fry to game preserves and individuals desiring to embark in this line of industry. During the period referred to the commission distributed more than 4,000,000 food and game fish, while the previous year the total amounted to 2,883,000,000. A member of the Fish Commission had the following to say recently in this respect:

"While the fish farmer can be sure of securing a larger profit per acre of fish than from other products, the best work is done today in small cement ponds, where eggs and fry can be kept under observation at all times."

"Many fish farmers sell eggs and small fishes to other fish farmers as well as to the government, the states and clubs. Many of them make a specialty of this work. Fish eggs can be shipped around the world in safety if kept cool and moist. They do not perish when taken from the water if properly protected in this way. This makes it easy for the fish farmers to find a market regardless of how far it is away."

The department is greatly hampered by the lack of money with which to make investigation of certain diseases which attack the fish, when they are wiped out in great numbers.

AT THE APOLLO.

Dustin Farnum tonight.
"The Lightning Conductor" will be presented at the Apollo tonight, plays an all star cast, including Dustin Far-num, who was so popular in the "Sawyer Man" and other big productions which have been shown here, William Elliott, leading man in the
"Fortune Hunter," Walter Hale, Rosina Henley and Helen Bertram.
As those who have read the novel by the Williamsons will remember, this play and story dealt with a motor car romance through southern Europe and in addition to being an interesting story, many beautiful views are brought into the arena's focus.

Battle Scenes Realistic focus.
One of the latest multiple war dramas and one which will find its level in the first row is a five-part Patriotic feature, "The Last Volunteer," which will be presented at the Apollo Tuesday.

The revolving of the nation-stirring events about the simple romance which springs up between a young monarch, who sheds his sovereignty
for a few days to enjoy the unconven-tionality of the world, and a peasant girl, whom he meets while traveling incognito, give a human interest touch to this drama without detracting in the least from the strength of the issues involved.

"The Fortune Hunter."
No one who saw the completed
presentation of "The Fortune Hunter," when it was shown here last week, will want to miss it again Wednesday of this week. It is one of the most interesting of all photo plays.
It is being repeated to allow those who missed the last run before the matinee,
to see it again free of charge.
If you were present last Wednesday in the afternoon and failed to see the full six reels, you will be given free seats for the matinee.

AT THE MYERS.

E. P. Roe, the originator of "He Fell in Love With His Wife" was one of the primitives of American literature, and a writer of the time
when they believed that true hearts
were more than coronets and simple shirts better than machine made Tuxedos. It was probably instinct that moved him to cast his idea of his novel in its surroundings.

The plot of the piece likewise is a splendid one, with the rough-and-ready humor duly exalted. Those who have read the book will recall how the young farmer, harassed by the incompetence of a housekeeper, finally conquered his scruples about marrying after his wife's death and contracted a civil arrangement with a girl who had just escaped the claws
of a bigamist, and the country town society, the barrier unconsciously built by their misunderstanding, of happiness which resulted from good faith and work on both sides, complete a picture of real love as Author
Roe set it forth a generation ago.

When "He Fell in Love With His Wife" was produced at the Cort theatre in Chicago, it was predicted that it would be a greater success, as a drama than "Way Down East," or "Shera Acres," and this prediction is truly coming to pass. The United Play company (Inc.) has provided an excellent cast and a fitting production.

The attraction will appear at Myers theatre on Thursday, Oct. 22, matinee and night.

THE PLUM TREE.

Francis X. Bushman will be featured in the three part Essanay drama which will be shown at the Myers on Tuesday. This photo play has been produced in conjunction with the prize mystery story which was published in the Ladies World.
It is a thrilling story of love, adventure, intrigue and revolution. A sensational hand to hand fight on a battle field is most dramatically shown. A big scene comes in the last part in which restitution is made and there is a beautiful reunion of love under the old plum tree.

MYERS VAUDEVILLE.

The three days of Western Vaue-
ville circuit attractions which closed Sunday night were responsible for phenomenal houses for all performances. Every act was well appreciated. More big acts are promised for the end of this week which will conclude with a combined vaudeville
bill and Jack Bessey's popular stock company on Sunday.

SCENE FROM "HE FELL IN LOVE WITH HIS WIFE," AT MYERS
THEATRE, THURSDAY, OCT. 22, matinee and night.

HOG CHOLERA CHECKED IN STATE SAYS ELIASON

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—According

to State Veterinarian O. H. Eliason
the hog cholera situation in Wisconsin is taking a turn for the better,
due to the wider application of vaccination and other preventive measures. The state is now remarkably free from the disease. The largest affected area is Racine, Kenosha and Winthrop counties and in the vicinity of Durand, on the western border.

Evansville News

BESSIE SPENCER IS WEDDED SATURDAY

Rev. D. J. Grabbil United Evansville Girl to Frank Francis of Denver at High Noon.

Evansville, Oct. 19.—Married at high noon Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Louis Spencer, Miss Bessie Spencer
of this city to Frank J. Francis of Denver, Colorado.

The pretty ceremony was witnessed only by near relatives and a few immediate friends of the family.
Rev. D. J. Grabbil of the Congregational church officiated, using the ring service. The bride wore a traveling dress of blue and carried a pretty bouquet. The pretty dahlia decorations in the home were the comment of all present. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frost,
the latter being the bride's sister.

After the ceremony and congratulations a delightful two course dinner was served by the Misses Marion Calkins, Lillian Spencer, Jessie Kelley
and Ethel Frost.

The groom is a wealthy business man of Denver. The bride is one of Evansville's most popular young women, and the good wishes of the community go with the pair to their new home.

The couple left on the two o'clock train for visits at Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City, thence to their home at Denver.

Those from out of town to attend
the wedding were Misses Grace Howard, Lorraine Howard and Nellie Hagadorn of Beloit; Mrs. Bruce Douglas and Mrs. E. W. Beebe of Milwaukee; Miss Evelyn Spencer of Beaver Dam; Spencer Pullen of Madison and Miss Lillian Spencer of Brooklyn.

Celebrate Wedding Anniversary.
Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Gabriel very pleasantly celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary by entertaining thirty neighbors and friends Saturday at a six-thirty dinner. The tables and house were very attractively decorated with beautiful pink dahlia from the Gabriel garden, and an elaborate dinner was served.

The guests presented host and hostess with a half dozen solid silver knives and forks. The evening passed all too quickly with games and social chat, and Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel were "wished" another happy twenty-five years.

CHOLERA KILLS LITTLE MORRIS CROAK FRIDAY; TWO OTHERS ATTACKED

Little Morris Croak, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Croak, died Friday evening at ten o'clock, funeral services being held at the home, 10 o'clock at the home, Rev. Father Mc-Dermott of this place officiating.

The beautiful floral offerings and the large funeral were expressions of sincere sympathy and grief at the little one's sudden death.

He was taken ill Monday noon with cholera infantum, dying the following Friday. He would have been three years of age the 19th of next January, and is survived by his parents, five sisters, Eleanor, Mary, Katherine, Agnes and Genevieve, and one brother,
Edward. Interment was at Calvary cemetery in Croak's Settlement.

Those from out of town attending the funeral were Miss Mary Croak of Watertown, Miss Agnes and Frank Croak and Misses Nellie and Annie Melo, Miss Julia and Daniel Finanne,
all of Janesville.

Tuesday Genevieve Croak, youngest sister of deceased, was taken ill with the same disease and is in a very critical condition. Thursday little Agnes was also stricken likewise and for some time the illness of the three was thought to be due to poisoning of some sort. The latter is, however,
reported to be getting along nicely.

WELSH AND WHITE SIGN
FOR MILWAUKEE MATCH

Freddie Welsh, English lightweight champion of the world, and Charlie White, the leading American fighter
in this division, have signed for a ten round match before a Milwaukee club on November ninth. The agreement calls for both fighters to weigh in at 133 pounds, three o'clock in the afternoon. Welsh is at a farm at East Aurora at present and will train in Milwaukee.

Our special sale of "WEAR-EVER" Aluminum Utensils
will be continued for this week on account of the bad weather last week. Take advantage of these prices as they will be in effect this week only.

The Range your Wife wants

Does your wife like a range with plenty of gleaming
nickel and elaborate design? Or one plain, simple, dignified?

Does she prefer a steel or cast iron range? One with a warming oven or shelf? Will she use a reservoir for heating water, or a water front? Does she need a big, powerful, baking oven, or will a smaller one do?

No matter—she can find her ideal in a
